Hope fading for balanced federal budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration hopes that President Ford can balance the federal budget for the first time in seven years are fading fast, Treasury Department officials believe.

They chiefly blame the sagging economy, which they feel will reduce the revenues the government would obtain in corporate and individual income taxes. In addition, they expect new spending pressures from Congress to ease recession and unemployment.

"My guess at the moment is that the revenue prospect for fiscal 1976 makes it difficult to assure a balanced budget for that year," said Sidney Jones, counselor to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

"The challenge for 1976 is to keep the spending side of the budget under control," said Jones in an interview. "There is a great risk of it getting out of hand."

Another key Treasury official, who did not want to be quoted by name, agreed with Jones' assessment that a balanced budget would be difficult to achieve, especially because of the sagging economy.

In addition, this official said Tuesday's election results, which gave substantial gains to the Democrats, means "we will end up with an extremely liberal 94th Congress.

"Congress will find it extremely difficult to resist big spending."

The Ford administration strategy will be to get as much of its economic program through the final weeks of the lame-duck 93rd Congress, including the 5 per cent income surtax, which already has met with considerable opposition.

Jones said the administration feels the Ford tax program — which also includes an increase in the investment tax credit and tax exemptions for dividends on preferred stock — will stand a better chance of passage in the existing Congress.

In a speech in Chicago Wednesday night, Simon said, in effect, that the existing Congress will be irresponsible if it fails to enact the Ford program promptly.

"If the Congress refuses to act in the next few weeks, we should recognize that position for what it is — a conscious, deliberate decision to let inflation rage on," Simon said.

But Simon, Jones and other officials made clear the administration will fight any move in the next Congress to reimpose wage and price controls, although they acknowledged there might be increased pressure for such controls.

Ambulance ready for service

Missouri Delta Community Hospital's two new ambulances are ready for service after months of waiting. Members of the hospital staff and Jaycees, who donated funds to purchase the ambulances, met Wednesday to inspect the equipment in one of the new units. Accidental gunshot fatal to woman

CHAFFEE — A rural Chaffee woman died of accidental gunshot wounds Wednesday, Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Cape Girardeau County Coroner George Rouse have ruled.

Doris Jean Diebold, 20, of Route One was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau following the accidental discharge of a seven-millimeter magnum rifle about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred while Mrs. Diebold was helping her husband, Vincent Diebold, place the stock of the weapon in a vise following repairs he had made on it, Nunnelee said this morning.

The bolt action mechanism released as the vise was tightened, Nunnelee said, causing the discharge of the bullet. The couple did not realize the gun contained a cartridge, Nunnelee added.

Following the accident, Diebold called the Cape Girardeau Ambulance Service, telling them to alert the hospital that he was bringing in an accidental gunshot victim in his car. She was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Diebold buys, repairs and sells old weapons, Nunnelee said, and was repairing the weapon for a customer in Cape Girardeau.

The investigation was conducted jointly by the Scott County sheriff's department, Nunnelee and Rouse.

Mrs. Diebold was born Nov. 26, 1953 at Cape Girardeau to Michael Frank and Mary Ann Schulte Blattel of New Hamburg, who survive.

She was a member of St. Lawrence Catholic Church at New Hamburg and was a 1972 graduate of Kelly High School at Benton.

She and Diebold were married on May 5, 1973.

Meeting to evaluate proposed program

EAST PRAIRIE — The East Prairie R-2 School District board of education is sponsoring a banquet meeting at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 15 in the A. J. Martin Elementary School cafeteria and have invited representatives from local business firms as their guests.

The purpose of the meeting is to evaluate a school- community - student work program for possible implementation into the high school curriculum for the 1975-76 school year.

Lester Kesterson, a representative of the State Department of Education, will present a slide program on the work study program. Business leaders of the community will be surveyed to assess need and interest in the proposed program, which is designed to permit students to work part-time during school hours an still meet graduation requirements.

Lawayne Law, high school principal, said letters of invitation have been mailed to local business firms requesting that they be represented at the meeting. Representatives of the firms are asked to phone the principal's office (649-3509), giving the names and number of persons planning to attend the banquet.

In the event any businesses have been overlooked and do not receive a letter of invitation, they are also asked to contact the school to notify school officials of their desire to attend.

Nixon's testimony may be taken on videotape

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said today that former President Richard M. Nixon's testimony in the Watergate cover-up trial may have to be taken on videotape in California.

Sirica made the comment after Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, reported to Sirica that it will be at least two or three months before Nixon can exert any substantial mental or physical effort.

Reporting on Nixon's health as required by Sirica, Miller said it will be an indeterminant time before Nixon can travel any significant distance.

Nixon, hospitalized in Long Beach, Calif., was reported Wednesday to have contracted a slight case of pneumonia, further complicating his condition. He underwent surgery last week for a blood clotting condition.

Miller said he spoke with Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, who gave him a detailed description of Nion's condition.

Miller said Nixon is likely to remain hospitalized for another 10 days or two weeks.

"Because of the patient's weakened condition," Miller said, "it is expected that the earliest time he could participate, without a serious danger to his health, in any activity requiring substantial mental or physical effort would be two to three months."

The report also noted that only members of Nixon's family are allowed to visit for only five minutes of each hour.

"The patient is very weak and easily fatigued," Miller

New Madrid man still missing

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County sheriff's department is continuing efforts to locate B. J. Rooker Jr., 30, who disappeared a week ago after leaving the home of his parents on a bicycle.

The night before he disappeared, Rooker was involved in a traffic accident in which his younger brother, Jimmy, 18, was fatally injured.

City Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees said today that information had been received that Rooker had bought a bus ticket Friday to Cape Girardeau, where he formerly lived, and that it is believed he may be in that area.

A Sikeston man found a bicycle Saturday in the old city dump across the levee and discovered that it matched the description of the one Rooker was riding. The man took it to New Madrid and Rooker's mother confirmed identification of it, Dees said.

Occupational survey forms sent to counties

MALDEN-The Missouri Division of Employment Security and Bootheel Industrial Development Council are mailing occupational survey forms this month to all residents in the six counties of Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard, Pat Lea, chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, announced today.

The survey forms will be tabulated by data processing, and final results will be used in completing community profiles. The profiles are factual information sheets used by the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development and other agencies working to located industry in the area.

If profiles are not on record with these agencies, Bootheel communities will have fewer chances to grow, Lea stated.

New and expanding industries require knowledge of professional skills, jobs, years of experience, type of education and age when considering our area for possible location.

Employment Security managers Dee Lambert of the Sikeston office, James Storey of the Kennett office and Floyd Drew of the Caruthersville office urge each resident between the ages of 16 and 65 to fill out the questionnaire, regardless of occupation or employment. The completed forms need not be signed and should be returned in the envelope provided not later than Dec. 18. All replies will be kept strictly confidential.

Cooperating with the three organizations are all of the cities and towns in the six-county Bootheel area. Additional forms will be placed in banks.

Madrid board hears gripes on garbage, sewer problems

NEW MADRID — During a special meeting Wednesday night, called because of the lack of a quorum for Monday night's regular meeting, the Board of Aldermen was besieged with complaints concerning trash and garbage disposal and sewer problems.

Bobby Daniels, 708 Mitchell St., again came before the board protesting the addition of a $2.25 monthly trash and garbage pickup charge to his light and water bill. Daniels refused to pay a bill due Oct. 25, and the city cut off his electrical service.

Daniels told the council that he is now operating his lights and appliances by means of a portable electrical generator. He told the council he would not pay the bill and was seeking legal action.

The Board members advised him to go ahead and pay the charge under protest so he could receive the services until a legal decision is made. Daniels refused the offer. His main objection appears to be that he must set his garbage containers at curbside in order to receive the service.

Mike Brown, who lives in West Acres subdivision, requested that the council agree in writing to clean out any obstructions that might be caused in his sewer line in the future as a result of the city making a connection to his line. The council approved the request.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet, 1111 Scott St., requested the board to tell them about progress in sewer improvements needed near their home. They were informed that right of way for a new sewer line is being obtained and that work would begin as soon as possible.

City Administrator Don Lloyd told the board about a citizens request for a four-way stop sign at the intersection of Capitol and Mott streets in order to slow traffic entering Mott Street from the recently blacktopped old Kingshighway.

Mayor Jim Cravens appointed Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees and Alderman Ed LaValle and Bill Boyd to a committee to study the request and the need for traffic control at any other intersections in the city.

Miner will get no grants

Miner's rejection Tuesday of a proposal to become a fourth-class city has killed any chance of the village getting a sewer grant or any other kind of major federal grants, according to Phil Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Miner voters rejected the proposal, 92-28. The question had been placed on the ballot after the Board of trustees received a petition calling for the election that had been signed by 250 people.

Shelton said the planning commission was disappointed by the outcome of the vote. He said the BRPC had been working on a sewer proposal for Miner involving a federal grant covering 80 per cent of the cost.

He said Miner is not eligible for major federal grants requiring large bond issues, as long as it remains a village because Miner does not have the bonding power required for the grant.

He pointed out the village has a number of motels, all of which use sewer lagoons. A sewer system would have speeded growth in an area already growing rapidly, he said.

HOMESTEADING, 1974 STYLE

In the annals of American history, the practice of "homesteading" has played a great role, with Oklahoma standing out as one of the great states to be populated by homesteaders. On April 22, 1889, ten thousand persons congregated to stake land claims along the line of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway. The 1,887,640 acres of land thus claimed are located in what is now central Oklahoma. But this event, dramatic though it was, was to be completely overshadowed on September 16, 1893. It was on that date that six million more acres, purchased by the U.S. Government from the Cherokees, were opened for homestead sites. No one will ever know exactly how many people showed up that day to make the run into the Cherokee Strip, but it is known to have exceeded 100,000. The story of that event has been told and retold in dozens of novels, movies, poems, and literary works of every description. And not a small part of that story involved the great heroism, courage, and durability of those folk who managed, not just to make the "run" and stake their claims, but to survive and persevere through the lean fall, bitter winter, and long hard summer to follow in those years of 1893 and 1894.

It is certainly appropriate, then, as we approach our Bicentennail celebration, that the practice of homesteading is being brought back. First in Wilmington, Delaware, and now in Washington, D.C., selected families chosen by lottery are "staking their claims" to abandoned and dilapidated government - owned houses for the price of $1. In return, the families agree to fix the houses and live in them for five years. It is estimated that it will cost anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 to bring the places into good repair. And, if the family sticks it out, in five years time they will own the homes, free and clear.

It's a great idea. Not only will it give deserving and ambitious folks a new start on life and an opportunity to work their way up in the same tradition as the homesteaders of yesteryear, but it is certainly a better bargain from the taxpayers' point of view.

Taxpayers may enjoy the tropical haven for $150 a day (per couple). The sunken baths, private pools and free-flowing liquor are "cordoned off from the common folk of Haiti by a wall of broken glass jutting out from the resort's cliffs," Scherle reports.

A THANKSGIVING CLASSIC
Thanksgiving Day

Over the river and through the wood,
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way
To carry the sleigh Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river and through the wood,
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes
And bites the nose, As over the ground we go.

Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!" Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!

Over the river and through the wood,
Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground
Like a hunting-hound For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barnyard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow,— It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and throught the wood,
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done? Hurrah for the pumpkin-pie!

THE LAST WORD

A number of the old sayings make more sense if you just drop the last word. For instance: Familiarity breeds. Blondes have more. An apple a day keeps the doctor. Dead men don't. Money is at the root of all. Fools rush in where agels fear to. Nothing's so rare as a day in. Beauty is only skin. Hell hath no fury like a woman.

PUBLIC BENEFITS FROM COMPETITION

Man, by his very nature, is a competitive being. Americans are uniquely so. Our love of sports, which mirror the competitive instinct in its most elementary sense, is an example.

Economic competition, though a bit harder to comprehend, is still one of our most basic instincts and is responsible for much we have accomplished in our relatively brief 198 years of history. Company A and Company B produce similar products. To prosper, one must perform some aspect of its function better than the other; lower prices better quality, superior service , more varied choice—the possibilities are endless.

The point is that to win customer approval, they must compete. And everyone benefits from the results, particularly the public whose favor is so ardently courted. Our standard of living, unmatched in history, is a monument to the long term benefits of a competitive enterprise system.

This system needs support, not discouragement if it is to continue doing the job it does so well. The market must remain free, with the consumer the ultimate arbiter in deciding what goes and what stays. Government decision-making in the market process does disservice to those who consume. After all, if production here was determined by some obscure bureaucrat in Washington, we might still be buying Edsel, Kaisers and Hupmobiles.

LAUGHS YOU CAN SHARE

Humor is where you find it. But would you expect to find it buried in a claim form submitted to an insurance company?

The fact is, according to the Health Insurance Institute, that on occasion these documents unintentionally read like a comedy script.

The following are seriously-intended comments that have turned routine insurance reports into startling ones:

"I was simply driving down the street and there was this tree in the middle of the road."

"I am writing to say that my baby was born two years old. When do I get the money;"

"Patient is reasonably comfortable as long as he is not required to do any work of any kind."

"A pedestrian hit me and went under my car."

Then there was the doctor who told it exactly like it was. He wrote: "Patient hit by truck. No neurologic function. No respiration. No cardiac action. Condition incompatible with life."

And a woman sent this chiller: "I am glad to report that my husband who was reported missing is dead."

Then there are those who try to follow instructions to the letter. Replied this new mother: "I have given births to twins in the enclosed envelope."

Another mother had this understated question: "You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make a difference?"

And then there were these eye openers:

"I have no children as yet as my husband is a bus driver and works night and day."

"I was dancing the jitterbug at a party when right leg let go."

"Policyowner was attending a safety award meeting and was struck by an award -- a desk clock -- and chipped a front tooth."

Among the Institute's favorites was this note from an anxious young mother: "In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy weighing 10 pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

And these are reasons enough why not to take oneself quite so seriously.

MISSING SOME BUCKS?

SALESMEN ARE PERSISTANT...like the one who finally got into the tycoon's inner office. "This speaks well for your power of persuasion that you got in 'cause I've thrown out 14 other salesmen today." "I know," said the salesman. "I'm all of them."

The next time one of these persistent individuals comes in, make use of him. Pin him down as to how much co- op advertising his company has to offer...and then make use of these programs.

Month after month we hear of firms whose co- op ad bucks are not being used mainly because the retailer doesn't know anything about the fund. Many times the salesmen are so intent on getting your name on his order book that he doesn't tell you of his firm's co- op program. Don't let him get out of the store until he gives you the details of their program. Then call us and we will be happy to help work out a schedule that will help you realize more sales.

MEETING A NEW THREAT

Time after time, in war, in peace, during prosperity or economic adversity, the nation has had occasion to call on the resources of private enterprise for help in resolving situations that threatened national well-being. Such a situation has now arisen in the case of drug abuse. The U.S. prescription drug industry has offered its full cooperation with government in a search for ways to eliminate or control narcotic addiction. As a research- oriented industry, the country's major pharmaceutical manufacturing concerns can make an incalculable contribution to this health problem that is reaching epidemic proportions.

A spokesman for the pharmaceutical industry, while warning that there is no quick or easy answer to the problems of bringing narcotic addiction under control, declares: "....We are keenly aware that the sheer complexity and social consequence of the problem make it mandatory for our activities to be linked with what others are doing in university and government laboratories, in private and public programs of all kinds and at all levels, and insofar as possible with what other nations are doing. Fortunately, what we represent and what we can contribute is a highly specialized resource for research and development in chemistry and biology related to the evolution of compounds for use in man. And we welcome the opportunity to bring that resource increasingly to bear on a problem of critical importance, just as we have in the past. We hope and believe our resources can hasten the availability of better ways to control narcotic addiction...."

The key words in this drug industry spokesman's statement are: "....just as we have in the past...." Largely, through the specialized resources of America's pharmaceutical manufacturers, most of mankind's most ancient and dreaded diseases..smallpox, typhoid, polio, etc.-- have become evils of a bygone era. No 90- day wonder can be expected to end the curse of narcotic addiction, but it is comforting to know that the pharmaceutical industry, which has long been subjected to unjustified political attacks, is centering its attention on a new threat to human health-- in the best tradition of private enterprise.

WHERE THE POSER OPERATES

One of the basic causes of the War for Independence 200 years ago was labeled "taxation without representation." What the founders of the U. S. were talking about was the fact that they were governed by people selected by others, not elected by the people. The colonists in America considered themselves to possess all the rights of Englishmen, including the right of self-government.

The King took a different view. Parliament acted too slowly to restore the rights of citizens to the colonists, so the colonists restored them for themselves and England lost the American colonies.

Today we find ourselves governed by millions of people we have never elected to office. Taxes are heaped upon taxes by those who benefit from the treasury, while the taxpayers find themselves virtually powerless to turn the tide.

One out of six employed persons is now on federal, state or local government payrolls. That totals nearly 15 million persons. No longer are these individuals simply low-paid clerks who carry out policies established by the people's elected representatives. They now constitute a powerful, self-perpetuation policy-making bureaucratic elite which not even a President as popular and powerful as John F. Kennedy was able to control, as he himself noted. This is not a healthy situation for our Republic. Freedom cannot survive unless the people and their elected representatives regain control of government from the agency and department bureaucrats who really are the government, regardless of the party in power.

Big Man's Shadow: Are Strikes Inevitable?

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time there were two of the toughest men I've ever known as man and boy reporter. One was President Harry Truman. There was war in Korea. There was a strike in the coal fields. And there was the leonine mine workers' president, John L. Lewis. They disliked each other. "Mister" Lewis had not been to the White House -- once his habitat -- for a long time.

David Cole was in those days, and still is, adviser to presidents and dean of mediators. He knew that Mr. Truman had said the coal digging stoppage was "one of the worst crises I've ever been in" (expletives deleted). So Dave Cole, director of the mediation service, finally prevailed on both strong men to meet. They did. In the Oval Office.

They were superficially polite to each other. John L. was doing a slow burn because the chairman of the Korean War era Wage Stabilization Board, chap by the name of Archibald Cox (yes, the same), had sliced six cents an hour from the pact "Mister" Lewis had made with the coal mine owners.

Despite Dave Cole's soothing words and presence, peacemaking wasn't going well. They were stubborn giants then. Finally, Harry Truman said to the president of the striking United Mine Workers (UMW), "Come and see what they've done to my house, I won't be here long, you know." It was 1952 and the mansion had just been renovated. So they went upstairs. They sauntered through the private living quarters as Mr. Truman pointed out famed curios and gifts. He stopped before a small marble-topped oval table. Said he: "This is my very favorite. Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation on it."

"Do you mind if I touch it?" asked the Shakespearean John Lewis, his dramatic face alight in the glow of the sheer presence of history and the reminiscence of a nation ripped in bloody fratricide.

President Truman said, "Of course not." Dave Cole smiled gently as the two strong men stood there stroking the table. It was then about 9 p.m.

"Mr. President," said John Lewis, "the coal miners will be back at work tomorrow morning."

They were. President Truman turned to other crises. Dave Cole turned to other problems. Archibald Cox soon enough returned to Harvard.

Now, as then, there is no need for men to rip this country apart during national crises. This must have bren obvious to UMW president Arnold Miller as he sat with President Jerry Ford in the same Oval Office last Wednesday (Oct. 29) shortly after noontime -- 22 years later. The President and the coal diggers' union chief -- as have their predecessors way back to Theodore Roosevelt's time -- talked about the "strike." But only for a few minutes of their half-hour conference in the presence of today's mediation chief Bill Usery.

There were other problems to discuss. This nation needs a huge supply of flowing energy. Some 600 million tons of coal now are dug annually. At least a billioin tons will be needed by 1980 to free this nation from oil boycott threats abroad. That's what the President of the U. S. and the president of the country's unionized soft coal diggers discussed. It is one nation but at the moment it appears mighty divisible.

Further, there isn't an oversupply of coal above ground. Bethlehem Steel Corp. has warned it would have to begin laying off men and shutting down its big mills in theee days after the start of a strike. U. S. Steel gave itself another 10 days. The Tennessee Valley Authority power houses are in sharp trouble. But Miller sounded optimistic -- at least in the President's presence.

However, he did not tell the President that he had dispatched four of his trusted aides to the national AFL-CIO headquarters here the morning of Oct. 18. There they conferred with one of the nation's most effective specialists in mass relief projects -- be they floods or strikes.

He is Leo Perlis, director of the big federation's Community Services. Perlis can call on tens of thousands of special counsellors, set up liaison with thousands of welfare and other relief state and local agencies -- all the way from food stamps to medical facilities. Under Perlis are some 200 full-time Community Service field assistants.

This is the apparatus the UMW delegation wanted activated to help 120,000 coal diggers and their families in the event of a strike -- which they said was certain to come.

Delegation spokesmen (there was one woman), said the mine union would need heavy relief aid in seven states in which coal digging is concentrated and in 14 other states where there are bituminoous, though scattered, pits. Perlis put the machine in high gear. He dispatched speakers to miners' meetings. He sent letters to scores of relief agencies.

By the morning of Oct. 31, the UMW was set for full-fledged industrial warfare against the nation's coal operators. It all appears so outmoded – like kerosene lamps.

There ought to be a better way to settle things. No one who has been down a pit can come up unfrightened -- except the coal diggers. No one can say the miners have not had a strong case for most of their demands. No one can deny, either, that some of these demands are extreme. Nor can anyone ignore the ability of the corporations to grant considerable of these demands. The operators haven't cried poverty. Why then months of tension?

This nation is in a crisis. It's later than you think. Men of good will can settle anything without disestablishing the economy. Perhaps Dave Cole should lead them back to that small marble-topped table over which a tall bearded man once bent to sign a document. Perhaps there can be a new Emancipation Proclamation to end the ritual rounds of civil war on the economic front. It's like today's ruinous high prices, a luxury this country no longer can afford.

WASHINGTON--Anyone who moves as fast as Henry Kissinger is bound to get things mixed up. What with all the flying around and talking to so many heads of state, it's no wonder that when he reports back to the President in Washington the conversation could go something like this.

"Well, Henry, how did it go?"

"Very well, Mr. President,. I got Madame Gandhi to lower her price of oil to $10 a barrel."

"India doesn't export any oil, Henry."

"It doesn't ? No wonder she was so eager to do it."

"How did things go in the Soviet union?"

"Fine, Mr. President. We're giving Brezhnev an atomic energy plant."

"You weren't supposed to give the Soviets an atomic energy plant. You were supposed to persuade them to cut back on nuclear weapons."

"But I got Bangladesh to cut back on nuclear weapons. They promised not to make any this year."

"We don't care if Bangladesh makes weapons or not. What happened to you over there, Henry?"

"I was moving all over the place, Mr. President. It's hard to keep all those countries straight. Who was supposed to get the atomic energy plant?"

"Sadat of Egypt."

"Oh, so that's it. I asked Sadat if we could us his landing fields to supply Israel."

"You were supposed to ask Portugal that, Henry."

Henry."

"Of course, Mr. President, how stupid of me."

"What (ital) did (unital) you ask Portugal, Henry?"

"I asked them to give up the Sinai and get out of the West Bank of the Jordon."

"What did Portugal say, Henry?"

"They said okay."

"I don't know how to break this to you' Henry, but Portugal is not occupying the Sinai. They're occupying Mozambique."

"That's funny. I asked Israel to give up Mozambique."

"What did (ital) they (unital) say?"

"They said okay."

"You really must be tired, Henry."

"Oh, I am, Mr. President, but the trip was worth it. We're giving the Shah of Iran 2 billion bushels of wheat."

"(ital) Giving (unital) him 2 billion bushels of wheat?"

"Yup, as part of our aid program."

"Henry, do you know that because of his oil exports the Shah of Iran now has more dollars than we do?"

"I thought that was Italy."

"Italy's broke, Henry. You should have promisedthe wheat to Italy."

"Darn,. Italy and Iran sound so much alike I always get them mixed up."

"What about the French, Henry?"

"Don't worry about the French, Mr. President. You can inform Sen. Henry Jackson the French have agreed on a new emigration policy for their Jews."

"You were supposed to get the Soviets to agree to that!"

"I was? No wonder the French didn't argue with me. I'm telling you, this jet lad is something."

"Okay, Henry, it's all my fault. I shouldn't have let you go to so many countries. Did you see the Pope in Rome?"

"I had a private audience with him and gave him your message, Mr. President."

"Which was?"

"You'd like to buy 12 squadrons of Grumman Hellcat fighter planes from us."

"Henry, let me ask you one last question. If you asked the Pope to buy Grumman fighter planes, whom did you ask to pray for us?"

"King Faisal?"

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Those ITT Bugs

WASHINGTON — We have gotten ourselves into another brouhaha with International Telephone and Telegraph.

This has caused the State Department to seek a criminal investigation of the multinational, multibillion-dollar conglomerate.

On October 2, we reported that ITT had placed a bugging expert inside the late President Salvador Allende's palace in Chile. Our story was based on ITT evidence, which escaped the shredder and was slipped to my associate Lew Whitten on a downtown Washington street corner.

Whitten double-checked the facts in the documents and then called ITT for comment. Without waiting for the story to appear, ITT's press chief Robert Sykes wired denials to many of our client papers.

Let's try to sort out the facts. In 1971, ITT plotted with the Central Intelligence Agency to keep Allende out of office. When this failed, the conglomerate tried to bring about Chile's economic collapse, hoping it would trigger a military coup.

We reported that ITT had conspired with Chilean militarists. Sykes objected that the CIA, not ITT, had done the plotting. This was followed by a shamefaced second wire from Sykes, retracting the charge against the CIA and laying the blame instead upon "unidentified persons."

ITT was in the midst of its skulduggery against Allende in 1971 when it quietly dispatched John Ragan, a master bugging technician, to Chile with a load of electronic gear.

ITT has now come up with the asonishing explanation that Ragan was supposed to help Allende de-bug his palace and two residences.

This would have been an odd mission, to say the least, for ITT to undertake while it was trying to foment a military uprising against Allende. Some might even suspect that ITT had hired the electronic expert to plant bugs rather than remove them.

As for us, we reported only what we could prove. We wrote that Ragan had gained access to the presidential premises, whether to bug or to d-bug we did not say.

Sykes, meanwhile, claimed that Ragan had been sent to Chile by ITT "at Dr. Allende's request." Fine, we said. Show us a copy of the request with Allende's signature.

ITT backed down again. It was not really Allende, said the company, but an unidentified aide who had requested the bugging expert.

We got into another hassle with ITT by insisting upon a certified signature. "Ridiculous," protested the company.

Ridiculous? A few days later, The New York Times accused ITT of chemically altering vital documents in a $12 million suit, a charge that the conglomerate was obliged to admit.

In flying the bugging equipment to Chile, we have now learned, ITT failed to get a State Department license. Bugging equipment suitable for military use requires a license, subject to a fine of $25,000 and two years in jail.

In its own letters, ITT has conceded that "offensive bugs" -- in other words devices used for bugging rather than de-bugging -- were "taken to Chile by Ragan." In Chile, according to these documents, "Ragan worked with the army and police."

Ragan has also acknowledged that bugging equipment was left in Chile for army and police use. Clearly, therefore, the bugs were suitable for military use. After we pointed this out, the State Department asked for a criminal investigation of ITT.

By leaving New York with the equipment, ITT may have violated another criminal law, even though certain exemptions are allowed for "common carriers" like ITT. If the bugs were not used by ITT in the "normal course of business," ITT officials could be subject to another $10,000 fine and five years in jail.

In its hurry to deny everything, ITT also denied making "approaches of any kind whatsoever to the Chilean military at any time." This conflicts with an ITT admission that its master bugging consultant Ragan was in contact with the Chilean military.

Indeed, Ragan's own secret notes on his meetings in Chile gave the coded names of military officers he met.

Another confidential document describes how Ragan, while on a contractual basis with the RepublicanNational Committee, received a telephone call from an ex-FBI associate, Russ Tagliareni.

Tagliareni happens to be ITT's assistant security director. Together, Tagliareni and Ragan flew to Chile, according to the document, as part of Ragan's 11-day mission. Ragan "received $200 a day for his duties," and at one point actually met Allende, adds the document.

These are some of the facts that ITT has neglected to mention in the denials it has been firing around the country. In the past, ITT has dissembled about the famous Dita Beard memo, shredded documents to destroy evidence and misled the Congress in testimony.

Before the evidence disappears on the Chile mission, we suggest it should be subpoenaed.

FOOTNOTE In similar cases of companies failing to get licenses for exporting electronic equipment, the Justice Department has obtained indictments. The firms, however, have always been small. An ITT spokesman told us that the conglomerate needed no license from the State Department for the bugs.

R-1 staff to participate in workshops

HOWARDVILLE — Students in New Madrid County R-1 district schools will be dismissed Friday while all certified and non-certified staff members participate in in-service workshops in each of the units. The Missouri State Teachers Association convention also will be in session at this time, and 12 delegates from R-1 district schools will attend.

A regional workshop sponsored by the state commissioner of education is scheduled Wednesday at the vocational complex. About 300 citizens, school board members, students, teachers and administrators representing 50 school districts over Southeast Missouri are expected to attend.

The workshop this year will consider vocational programs and the students' future.

Bobby Simmons, an R-1 instructor in auto body and fender repair, has been selected to serve on a statewide curriculum committee. This committee will meet throughout the year to revise and update auto body and fender repair instruction in all vocational schools, according to Bob Robison of the trades and industries section in the State Department of Education.

Several district schools have begun a breakfast program, in addition to Portageville, where the program has been in operation for several years. Students eligible for free lunches are also eligible for free breakfasts. Other students may participate for 10 cents, or a reduced price of five cents, and adults may participate for 30 cents.

The government reimbursement is such that this program is provided at very little cost to the district.

Supt. Ray Melton said the open house programs held during American Education Week were well attended by the public and that the board of education and staff were pleased with the interest shown in the schools

Melton also reported that parents of kindergarten students had been responsive and cooperative in arranging parent-teacher conferences instead of receiving a traditional report card.

Nixon contracts slight case of pneumonia

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is suffering from yet another medical complication: a slight case of pneumonia in his partially collapsed right lung.

Known as pneumonitis, the condition was apparently not considered serious. Dr. John C. Lungren said his patient is exhibiting over-all "slow but gradual improvement" since his brush with death last week following phlebitis surgery.

"He's ready to face the world again and fight back," reported a source close to Nixon. "He's not depressed anymore but he's grouchy."

Nixon, 61, hopes to be able to walk well enough soon to greet his wife, Pat, at his hospital room door, hospital spokesman Norman Nager said Wednesday. Nixon has been taking brief walks, assisted by nurses, around his room at Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

The pneumonitis, which Lungren said was being combatted with antibiotics, was presumably responsible for the partial collapse of the lung.

"The pneumonitis was determined by tests," Lungren said Wednesday in a written statement.

Civil Air Patrol offers Aerospace education

The Civil Air Patrol offers educational opportunities for teen-agers interested in the aerospace field, the Sikeston Lions Club was informed at its meeting Wednesday by Earl Cook, a Lions Club as well as CAP member, and Hugh McCollum, commanding officer of the CAP unit.

Cook said the CAP is an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force which has search and rescue and motivating youth to become interested in the aerospace field as its chief goals.

The Sikeston unit is one of 23 squadrons in the state, Cook said.

McCollum said the CAP youth program provides an aviation ground school for teen-agers.

After the ground school training, the youth should be able to pass a private pilot's written examination, McCollum said.

There is also a chance for the youth to attend summer camp and flight school, McCollum added.

He said interest among teen-agers in the CAP has dropped since the end of the military draft. However, the CAP is a civilian organization, not a military, one, McCollum stressed.

Two per second

As of 1974, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, the world's population is estimated to be 3.8 billion. With births outpacing deaths, the world's head count is going up at a rate of two more persons a second, nearly 200,000 a day, more than six million a month, and about 76 million a year.

The oldest and most important order of English knighthood is the Order of the Garter, founded in 1346 by King Edward III.

Ann Landers

'The other woman' rates lower than she imagines

Dear Ann Landers: Are you a big enough person to print a letter in defense of "The Other Woman"? I'm one and know that scene well.

I am 27, have never been married (or even asked), have an excellent position and my own apartment. (Nobody keeps me.) I cook when I please, have my own friends and interests, and most important, my own identity, independence and freedom.

I have known this man for eight years. He was married five years ago. I'm more than happy with our "arrangement." Of course I won't get any alimony when (or if) he decides to move on, and I won't collect any insurance when he dies. I do get a bottle of wine now and then and sometimes flowers, but no big gifts. I don't have my lover Sundays or holidays, and not many weekends. But when we are together it's heaven. Our relationship was established because we both wanted it. We've agreed that either of us can call it quits if and when we want to.

Now that you know what I get, I'll tell you what he DOESN'T get. Curlers in bed, dirty dishes in the sink, squawking kids, bills to worry about and lots of nagging. He receives my undivided attention, lots of loving, a back rub when he is tired, and always soft lights and beautiful music. He sleeps with me because he wants to. He sleeps with his wife because he has to.

Call it an ego trip for both of us, if you like, but what's wrong with it if we need and want it? Will you answer me, please?--Nameless, Natch

Dear Natch: There are names for women like you, but I don't believe that a label would serve any useful purpose in a situation such as this.

If it doesn't bother you that this man knew you for three years and then married someone else, you have a pretty tough hide, honey. Moreover, your ego must be awfully hungry if it can be fed by a back-street affair with a man who is eating his cake and having it, too. You, my dear, are settling for crumbs. Some trip!

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I just called my lawyer and asked if I could sue you. He said to forget it.

You, Ann Landers, with your stupid advice, have cost me $60 in swimming lessons. My 11-year-old son was always afraid of the water and finally after every ruse imaginable, we got him to agree to take swimming lessons. He has taken six lessons, which cost $10 each.

The teacher said he is still afraid of the water, but at least he is able to float. We considered this great progress. Then you had to come out and announce that you are a "non-swimmer" -- could never learn -- and that did it. Now my son says HE is a non-swimmer, just like Ann Landers. He refuses to go back for more swimming lessons.

You've lost a long-time fan in Florida and I want you to know it. -- A Mother Who Is Mad

Dear Mad: I hate to lose a fan, but facts are facts. I am a "non-swimmer" and confessed it in the hope that I might make that "non-driver" feel better. (Remember the woman in her 60s who took 40 driving lessons and failed the test four times?)

Maybe your son will change his mind. I hope so. Swimmers DO have more fun.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Vikings favored, 28-26

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, you want action? No delays, just business. So, how about Atlanta over Los Angeles? And Houston over Buffalo!

Far fetched? Maybe — but over the years, a change of coaches in midseason often sets the stage for an upset. This could mean an Atlanta victory. But what about one for Houston?

While you mull over this for a moment, let's report that last week's effort by the Pro Pigskin Picker was 13-0, a perfect slate. It lifted the season's showing to 74-29-1 for .718.

Now back to Atlanta and Houston:

ATLANTA (2-6) at LOS ANGELES (6-2): The Falcons have never won in Los Angeles, but they have a chance to redeem themselves and provide Marion Campbell, Norm Van Brocklin's successor, with his first victory. So, in the Upset Special ... Falcons 21, Rams 20.

HOUSTON (3-5) at BUFFALO (7-1): There's no reason to expect that the Oilers, on their first two-game victory streak since 1971, will make it three. So let's not have an upset here and say ... Bills 31, Oilers 17.

PITTSBURGH (6-1-1) at CINCINNATI (5-3): The injury to Cincinnati running back Boobie Clark tilts the scale to ... Steelers 20, Bengals 16.

WASHINGTON (5-3) at PHILADELPHIA (4-4): The going is too sticky in the NFC East for the Eagles to catch Washington looking ahad to Dallas. So ... Redskins 19, Eagles 17.

SAN FRANCISCO (2-6) at DALLAS (4-4): And the Cowboys won't start thinking about Washington until Sunday night ... Cowboys 24, 49ers 15.

DETROIT (4-4) at OAKLAND (7-1): Guess who has the longest victory streak current in the NFC? Guess who still will have the longest victory streak in the AFC ... Raiders 30, Lions 19.

MIAMI (6-2) at NEW ORLEANS (3-5): New Orleans will still be no worse off than a second-place tie in the NFC West after the scoreboard says ... Dolphins 26, Saints 14.

CLEVELAND (2-6) at NEW ENGLAND (6-2): The Patriots have scored more points than any other NFL team so far. Cleveland has yielded more points than any other club. How about ... Patriots 30, Browns 13.

CHICAGO (3-5) vs. GREEN BAY (3-5) at Milwaukee: Chester Marcol's field goal kicking should help John Hadl register his first victory for Green Bay ... Packers 17, Bears 14.

DENVER (3-4-1) at BALTIMORE (1-7): It's simply a case of the Broncos having more horsepower ... Broncos 35, Colts 10.

SAN DIEGO (2-6) at KANSAS CITY (3-5): With the help of rookie running back Don Woods, San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts should lead his team to its second straight upset ... Chargers 30, Chiefs 27.

NEW YORK JETS (1-7) vs. NEW YORK GIANTS (2-6) at New Haven, Conn.: Is there room in Manhattan for two swingers like the Jets' Joe Namath and the Giants' Craig Morton?... Giants 24, Jets 19.

MINNESOTA (6-2) at ST. LOUIS (7-1): Quarterbacks Jim Hart and Fran Tarkenton will provide the fireworks for the Monday night viewers in a game that could be a preview of the opening match in the NFC divisional playoffs in seven weeks ... Vikings 28, Cardinals 26.

Grid league races tight

The high school football season has two weeks remaining including the Friday night schedule and one of the conference crowns has already been claimed. I-SC has repeated as Bootheel champ.

Hayti just about has the Southern Division wrapped up. The Indians have one conference game left and that with the Portageville Bulldogs. Malden is second with a 4-1 conference slate and have a conference game left with Dexter, who is 3-1-1 in the Division.

The Northern Division is still open with Cape Central still leading the Poplar Bluff Mules by one game with two conference games remaining on the schedule. Friday night the Bengal take on Charleston and if the Bluejays upset the Tigers and the Poplar Bluff Mules defeat the Sikeston Bulldogs in their only remaining game the Division could end up with a two way tie. The Tigers have the Perryville Pirates on the schedule the following week to end the season.

Donkey ball at Essex

Essex-Gray Ridge Lions Club will sponsor a Donkey Ball Game at the Essex gym, Thursday night November 7, 7: p.m. Adults $1.00, children $.50. Door prize. Prominent local people will ride the donkeys.

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Adelphi University, ranked ninth nationally by the Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America, clinched the Metropolitan Conference Soccer championship with a 4-0 victory over Brooklyn College Wednesday.

Bootheel Sports Beat

By Bill Harrison

Daily Standard Sports Writer

By BILL HARRISON

The football season is rapidly coming to a close with just one week of play left for some team after Friday night's game, which closes out some campaigns.

As the weeks passed by our predicters came closer and closer to the perfect night. Last week Eddie Smart lost only one outcome. Maybe Eddie should change his last name.

This may be the week as everyone should have the teams weaknesses and strengths analyzed by now.

Cape Central at Charleston --- I don't know what happened to the Bluejays after they trounced Sikeston. Maybe the Bulldogs just made them look good. Cape 24, Charleston 14.

Jackson at Perryville --- This game is a toss up. Perryville is the favorite --- 14-13.

Kennett Dexter --- The Indians are too big for the Bearcats --- 28-13.

Poplar Bluff at Sikeston --- Mike Moss will show the Bulldogs the back of his jersey on the way to the goal line --- 28-7.

Chaffee at Caruthersville --- The Red Devils will play a good defensive game but lose --- 13-12.

Hayti at Doniphan --- The Indians are favorites --- 34-14.

Malden at Cairo, Ill. --- The greenwave will make it a clean sweep for Missouri teams over the Pilots --- 45-0.

Portageville at I-SC --- The Rams play too much defense for the Bulldogs --- 14-7.

I think I will get started in basketball this week and predict the winner of the Bell City B team tournament.

Bell City looks like the winner. They have decent guards and are big inside. Advance plays good defense but have only one experienced ball player in Steve Vavak. Kelly is tall but lacks experience. Puxico is short and can't contain the bigger teams. If Kelly and Bell City meet in the finals it should be an interesting game. Ed Street's the Kelly B team coach this year. He seems to be playing musical schools. It's his third school in as many years.

Alabama closing in on loop title

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Fearless Forecaster

Egad, friends, the woods — heh-heh — are full of outstanding football contests this weekend. Enough, indeed, to satisfy even the zaniest football filberts! For starters, how about these matchups; Alabama vs. LSU, Florida vs. Georgia, Texas — Baylor, Ohio State vs. Michigan State, Oklahoma — Missouri. Not bad, eh what?

And to the above you can add Southern California vs. Stanford, UCLA — Oregon, Texas A&M vs. SMU, Texas Tech against TCU, Miami of Ohio vs. Kent State, California against Washington, and Virginia meeting Virginia Military Institute for the 69th time. Jove, 't will be some weekend.

Here are the Hoople Computers predictions on these headliners. At Birmingham, the Alabama Crimson Tide will continue its relentless sweep toward another Southeastern crown as they turn back Charley McClendon's LSU Fighting Tigers 28-14. Also in the Southeastern, the Florida Gators will outfight the Georgia Bulldogs to take a narrow 24-21 victory — umkumph!

The Ohio State Buckeyes will have a tussle on their hands but figure to double the score on the revived Michigan State Spartans. We see Ohio State winning 34-17.

The Oklahoma-Missouri fray looks like a high-scoring affair with Joe Washington and his Sooner supporting cast finishing on the long end of a 42-21 count. Texas and Baylor will whack it out in Waco and when the thumping is over Texas will be ahead 34-24.

It's been a lean year for Stanford and the visiting Southern California Trojans don't figure to make it any easier for the Cardinals this Saturday. In the 52nd renewal of this great rivalry, the Trojans, with superlative Anthony Davis leading the way, will prevail 27-10 in this important Pac 8 meeting.

In a pair of Southwestern contests that will have bearing on the league title, Texas A&M will edge SMU, 22-14, and Texas Tech's Red Raiders will blast TCU, 26-7.

The fine Miami Redskin eleven will clinch the Mid-America title and a Tangerine Bowl spot with a 36-14 conquest of Kent State. This Miami club would hold its own against any team in the nation — har-rumph!

California's Golden Bears, enjoying a fine season due to the strong arm of Steve Bartkowski, will rout Washington 26-7, at the same time UCLA's Bruins will whip invading Oregon, 17-10.

In one of the country's oldest rivalries Virginia will entertain VMI at Charlottesville. Usually when the Cavaliers and the Keydets hookup you can throw out the form book, but this year with Scott Gardner, the Cavaliers' one-man gang, leading the way it will be all Virginia, 37-6.

Over in Slippery Rock, Pa., the fabled Slippery Rock Rockets will end their nine-game schedule by grounding the Clarion State Golden Eagles, 28-8 — har-rumph!

Now go on with my forecast.

Marshall claims Cy Young award

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Marshall, the tireless relief pitcher who helped the Los Angeles Dodgers win their first pennant in eight years, was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner today.

Marshall collected 17 of 24 possible first-plact votes to outscore teammate Andy Messersmith, 96 points to 66, and become the first relief pitcher in history to win the coveted prize.

The only other reliever to win a major award from the Baseball Writers Association of America was Jim Konstanty, who was the National League's Most Valuable Player during the "Whiz Kid" days of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

The Dodgers took three of the first four places as Atlanta's Phil Niekro finished third with 15 points and Los Angeles' Don Sutton was fourth with 12.

Messersmith, along with Niekro the only 20-game winners in the National League this year, received five first-place votes. Niekro and Sutton had one each. Pitchers from the National League champion Dodgers thus gained 23 of the 24 first-place votes.

The remainder of the field included Al Hrabosky of St. Louis with nine points; Cincinnati's Jack Billingham, eight; Cincinnati's Don Gullett, five; Clay Carroll of Cincinnati, two, and Pittsburgh's Dave Giusti, Buzz Capra of Atlanta, and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, all one.

A total of 24 writers voted, two from each National League city, and the point total was decided on a basis of five for first place, three for second and one for third.

Marshall appeared in a record-breaking 106 games this past season, an achievement that bettered his own National League standard of 92 set the year before with the Montreal Expos.

He became the first relief pitcher in National League history to qualify for the earned run title with 208 innings. Marshall finished fourth in that category with a 2.42 mark.

The squarely-built right-hander, a controversial figure who is considered somewhat of an intellectual snob, had a 15-12 won-lost record and 21 saves for Los Angeles this year. Indefatigable, Marshall pitched batting practice in between assignments so as not to rust his talents.

"I can pitch as long as I want to, as much as I want to, and as many years as I want to," Marshall once said.

Marshall, now studying for a doctorate in psychology at Michigan State University and teaching at the same school, was given a landslide victory in the Cy Young election from the very people he had disdained — the sports writers.

During the World Series against the Okland A's last October, Marshall refused to talk to writers because, as one reporter put it, "He believes that sports writers are below his station."

Marshall teaches kinesiology, the study of the anatomy in relation to body movements.

Clint Courtney, former major league catcher, manages Richmond, Va., in the International League.

Letters to the Editor

I, Bob Daniels would like to clarify some statements appearing in your article of Nov. 5 regarding my refusal to pay my utility bill.

I did refuse to pay this bill. But only after I was informed by Mr. Don Lloyd, city adm: I could not pay the utility bill without paying the trash bill.

Should I be made to pay for service not rendered? I refuse to carry trash for curb pickup, when I have a alley beside my res: and said alley still being on city map and no record of ever being abandoned.

Publication by New Madrid Weekly record, stated that trash pickup would be by alley or curb side, after the informal meeting with Mayor Jim Cravens & Atterman, I was advised that either means of pickup had been left up to Mr. Jr. Masterson, who has the trash contract with this city.

I do realize the city of New Madrid has a problem of meeting the states requirements for proper disposal of trash. But, do not feel that enough thought was given to this matter and a better means of trash pickup could be made available to the res. of this city.

A monthly charge of $2.25 per. month of which $1.95 being paid to Mr. Masterson and .30 being for billing charge. I feel we should not have to bag and carry our trash to the curb for pickup. And if the plastic bags are damaged or opened by your friendly neighborhood dogs we have trash all over the street and we rebag it and in some cases a refusal of pickup, because of improperly bagged trash.

I have not paid my Utilities and at the present time have my utilities cut-off. I plan to fight this issue and I am in hopes if having my lights turned back on, after fighting for a court injunction. I just hope that more of the Res: of New Madrid feel strong enough about this issue to get something done about it.

Bell employes carry ID

The Daily Standard,
Sikeston, Mo.
November 7, 1974

There's an old saying: "To be forewarned is to be forearmed."

Such a warning paid off recently for two Sikeston residents. In both cases, a man describingIhimself as a telephone employe asked to enter a house to check telephones.

Remembering Southwestern Bell's announcement last summer that all company employes carry identification cards and present them voluntarily, the residents asked to see the man's identification, at which point the would be intruder fled.

Southewestern Bell Telephone Co. started the voluntary ID program to prevent the possibility of unauthorized persons gaining entry to people's homes under the guise of being telephone employes.

The two incidents served to remind customers never to let any installer or repairman into their home unless they show company identification. All Southwestern Bell employes have photo IDs and present them voluntarily when they come to the door. Also, all telephone company trucks have markings clearly identifying them as company vehicles.

Problems of this sort have not been widespread in the Midwest and, with continued vigilance by customers, they won't be.

Any instance of a person posing as a telephone company employe in order to get into a home should be reported to the police immediately.

Co-captains of Michigan State's 1974 football team are fullback Clarence Bullock of Fort Wayne, Ind., and tackle Jim Taubert of Weymouth, Mass.

OUR BOYS WITH THE COLORS

SAN ANGELO, Tex. — Tech. Sgt. William E. Woodard, son of Doyle Woodard of Advance, Mo., Route One, has been selected outstanding instructor of the quarter in his Air Training Command unit at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

Sgt. Woodard was honored for his effective teaching techniques and exemplary devotion to duty.

The sergeant is a 1960 graduate of Bell City. (Mo.) High School. His wife Glenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leadbetter of Advance.

What's the law?

The case of the perplexed wife

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Benny appreciated Army life about as much as he appreciated married. life. Consequently, after serving his hitch, he failed to report back to his wife Rosie who was unaware of the fact that her husbof the fact that her husband had been discharged from the service.

And, things being what they are, the ever-efficient Army conitued to send Rosie her monthly allotment check for two years thereafter.

When the Army finally discovered its error, it promptly demanded that Rosie immediately pay back all the money it had sent her during the beneficient two year period.

"You must be joking," she responded. "It certainly isn't my fault if you don't know who's in the Army. I received the money in good faith and spent it in good faith. There's nothing left. If you want your money back, go find my good-for-nothing husband and get it from him."

"We didn't send it to him," was the Army's answer. "We sent it to you. And since you weren't entitled to it, you're the one who has to give it back."

Stalemated, the dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make perplexed Rosie give back the money?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that illegal payments by public officers of public money can recovered from the person to whom such money is paid. And, noted the judge, an overpayment of an Army allotment to a wife of a soldier or ex-soldier is an illegal payment.

Help sought to bring holidays to state hospital

FARMINGTON — Organizations and individuals interested in doing something for the less fortunate at Christmas time are invited to participate in Operation Christmas at Farmington State Hospital. The project is designed to bring some cheer into the lives of hundreds of patients who will be spending the holidays on hospital wards.

The hospital staff furnishes Christmas trees and decorations and arranges for some special holiday activities. The personnel, however, are primarily involved in patient care; thus outside help is needed for gifts and or money to purchase gifts, sponsorship of ward parties, caroling and gift wrapping.

Donations to Operation Christmas 1974 may be sent or brought to Mrs. Wilma Rose, volunteer services supervisor, on the second floor of the Cayce Building, Farmington State Hospital, Farmington, Mo. 63640.

Offers of help and requests for more detailed information may be directed to Mrs. Rose at telephone number 756-4586, extension 308.

The name "orange" dates back to 300 A.D. and the Arabian "naranj" and Persian "narang" names for the citrus fruit. Philosopher Albertus Magus of Bavaria (1193-1280) referred to sour oranges as "arangus."

Thoughts
From The Living Bible

But if someone who is supposed to be a Christian has money enough to live well, and sees a brother in need, and won't help him — how can God's love be within him? Little children, let us stop just saying we love people; let us really love them, and show it by our actions. Then we will know for sure, by our actions, that we are on God's side, and our consciences will be clear, even when we stand before the Lord.

What causes clots in lung?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A relative of mine was put in the hospital complaining of a heaviness on the left side of the chest, and she had numbness in her fingers and arm. After tests were made of the heart, stomach and chest, the results showed she had blood clots in her lungs. Can you explain how this came about? We have heard about getting blood clots after an operation but never without a reason.

DEAR READER — Spontaneous occurrence of blood clots is rather uncommon but it occurs. A person may develop a clot or inflammation of the veins in the legs or even in the pelvic region, and the clot may jar loose and pass through the heart to the lungs.

The danger of a loose clot going to the lungs is the reason doctors are usually very careful with a patient who has a clot in the leg veins or an inflammation of the veins, as in the case of ex-President Nixon.

This problem can develop in active persons as well as inactive persons. It is more apt to occur in the legs if the venous drainage of the legs is slowed. This can occur with constricting wearing apparel. It may occur with sitting too long with pressure on the back of the thighs, as can occur in long airplane rides. That is one reason I recommend getting up and stirring around a little if you are going to be traveling for a long time. It occurs in pregnancy, in part because of the pressure on the veins from the pregnant uterus. And, clots in the legs may occur for no good reason at all.

A loose clot tends to go to the lungs because the clot forms in the veins. The veins all drain to the right side of the heart, and the blood is all pumped from the right heart to the lungs. The clot can't get through the lungs to go on to the left side of the heart and out into the arteries. Clots that cause strokes commonly originate in the left side of the heart and not in the veins.

The clot in the lung is called a pulmonary embolism. It resembles a heart attack, just as you have described it. The doctors need tests, including a heart tracing, blood tests, and sometimes special X-ray tests to determine what the problem really is. Sudden onset of chest pain and breathlessness (often extreme) are two common features of a pulmonary embolism.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you advise all adults not to drink milk? Is it true that only children need milk? You may guess I like milk and want to continue drinking it. My weight, blood pressure and cholesterol are no problem. Please advise us, as we are a milk-drinking Senior Citizen group.

DEAR READER — I prefer that everyone get about a quart of milk a day or its equivalent as cottage cheese or buttermilk, or a milk substitute.

In 1811, the Shawnee Indians were defeated in the battle of Tippecanoe in Indiana.

In 1885, the Canadian Pacific railroad was completed.

In 1918, a false report tha: Germany had accepted World War I peace terms set off great excitement.

In 1942, the Allied iasion o Nrh oafrica began in World War II.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was elected to a fourth term as president.

Ten years ago: A nearly-completed building collaped in Rio de Janeiro, killing 41 persons.

Five years ago: Sixty-five miners were killed in an explosion in a gold mine in South Africa.

Project Independence runs out of energy

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Project Independence, the federal energy program, is stalled.

When announced by former President Nixon, the goal was to increase U.S. energy production enough by 1980 to insulate the nation from the power of foreign oil cartels. The target date first slipped to 1985; now advisers talk of 1990, 2000 and beyond.

Unless there's more progress soon than is now in sight, we may be open to price jacking or boycott by Arab nations and their petro-associates until the 21st century.

Sitting in on sessions of an energy crash program advisory board provides a dismal picture of government failure.

The advisers are competent — top-flight executives and researchers from industry, universities and the financial world. They pull no punches, sound more gloomy than the economists. They believe the independence goal is possible — eventually. But because Congress and the White House put energy on a back burner when long gas lines ended at the filling stations, the coming mid-term crunch is just as certain as it seemed last winter.

The board I sat in on ticked off these problems:

Finance: Some $600 billions, or $40 billion a year will be needed over the next decade and a half to reach the energy goals by 1990. Private corporations alone would have to raise $16 billion a year in equity capital in 1973 dollars. Even in 1972, U.S. corporations secured only $8 billion through new stock issues. By 1971 the figure dropped to $2.3 billion. This year $600 million is expected. That's for all corporations, not just energy firms. How then, the experts asked, can we raise $16 billion a year in equity capital for energy alone, even assuming a dramatic recovery in the stock markets?

Petroleum: The major prospects for oil discoveries are in the offshore oceans. These are little surveyed or geologically mapped. Not much is being done to remedy this lack.

Shale: Once a big hope, the shale-to-gasoline program is now beset with political and environmental problems. Some 80 per cent of the most likely shale is on government land, where holdings by law are so restricted that profitable development is unlikely without congressional action. The scientists have been somewhat turned off by the high energy cost of turning buried shale into usable gasoline.

Nuclear power: The experts are not at all certain there are sufficient high-grade uranium ore deposits to fuel a uranium industry of the size foreseen in Project Independence. Foreign ores are no answer. Worldwide, nuclear energy is expanding more rapidly than in the United States, and the demand for high-grade ore mounts monthly. Licensing red tape continues to severely delay construction.

Coal: Production is expected to decline slightly between now and 1977, unless something more is done than seems likely now. Output could be doubled by 1990 if bottlenecks are eliminated in transportation, and the supply of mining engineers and supervisory personnel is increased. Delays occasioned by rougher than necessary environmental restrictions would also have to be cut.

Electric power: This industry is in the doldrums. Money is so costly many companies are canceling expansion plans. Many state agencies are snail-like in approving rate raises to meet rising costs.

One adviser's joking solution to the energy bogdown: "I hope we freeze next winter. It will be the only way we'll get anything done. Crises shake us into action."

Food services total more than $81 million in 1974

JEFFERSON CITY — School food services in Missouri's private and public schools represented more than an $81-million operation during fiscal year 1973-74.

This is one example of the massiveness of the five federal programs administered by the School Food Services Section of the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The programs are: the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program, Nonfood Assistance Program, Government Donated Food Program and Special Milk Program.

During the last school year, more than 1,117,000 Missouri school children had access to some type of food service in their schools.

A total of 126,190,558 half pints of milk were consumed in the state's schools during the 1973-74 school year. Of these, 99,123,416 were served as part of nutritious school lunches and breakfasts.

"Average daily pareticipation in the National School Lunch Program in Missouri reached 577,845 in the lastr school year," said Earl Langkop, director of the School Food Services Section.

"This represented 52 per cent of the total elementary and secondary school children in the state's public and private schools and 58 per cent of the children in attendance."

A total of 99.9 per cent of Missouri's public school children had access to lunches under the National School Lunch Program during the 1973-74 school year.

During the 1973-74 school year, the price children paid for school lunches equaled 38 per cent of the cost of the school lunch program. The remaining 62 per cent of the program was financed as follows: local funds (20 per cent), state funds (2 per cent) and federal aid (40 per cent).

Approximately $24 million was paid in salaries to 6,850 full-time employes and 3,316 part-time employees hired by Missuri's public and private schools to prepare and serve lunches to the state's school children, said Langkop. Another $7,711,547 was spent at the local level for such items as utilities, food service equipment, cold storage and transportation of food items.

Food costs alone amounted to more than $49 million in the provision of nutritiously balanced meals in Missouri's schools during the 1973-74 school year.

A total of 351 train carloads of donated commodities, having an estimated wholesale value of $8,391,762, was accepted and distributed to eligible schools during the past school year.

Average daily participation in the School Breakfast Program reached a peak of 18,914 during May. A total of 127 Missouri schools participated in the program during the last school year.

HORSING AROUND is not the idea of this rider and mount at a riding academy at Kisfai, Hungary. They are showing what horses from the country's famous Bugao stud farm can do. Foreigners are permitted to take the school course.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

World News in Brief

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is suffering from yet another medical complication: a slight case of pneumonia in his partially collapsed right lung. Known as pneumonitis, the condition was apparently not considered serious. Dr. John C. Lungren said his patient is exhibiting over-all "slow but gradual improvement" since his brush with death last week following phlebitis surgery.

NEW YORK (AP) — For 15 years Maureen Shoreys was a Roman Catholic nun. Now she is in training to be a railroad engineer. "My new job, although vastly different, resembles the convent life to some degree," says Miss Shoreys. "Both require a great amount of discipline." She is among a few women working with 1,200 trainmen on the Long Island Rail Road.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief coal inustry negotiator in conntract talks with the United Mine Workers union says an agreement may be reached by this weekend to keep short an expected nationwide miners strike. Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said he thought the two sides should be able to reach an accord "in two or three days," provided no new snags develop.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — There isn't a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn, but singer Frank Sinatra has put his 2½-acre estate on the market.

For $1.75 million, a homeowner can have the mansion, five guest houses, a tennis court, two swimming pools, a whirlpool bath, sauna and heliport. Terms are available, according to the realtor.

It seems the entertainer wants to move to Idyllwild in the San Jacinto Mountains west of here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two moderate Republican senators say the GOP must broaden its base and offer specific economic programs if it hopes to rebound from off-year election defeats that left its national strength at a 10-year low. The statements from Sens. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois came as President Ford and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pledged cooperation despite a general expectation of conflict over economic programs.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brothers gave $11.7 million to charity and pledged millions more in 1973.

The money actually dispensed was made known Wednesday in a report by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, one of dozens of trusts that serve as repositories for the Rockefeller fortune.

The report did not say to whom the largess was directed, but the largest pledge disclosed was $10,163,772 to Rockefeller University. The second largest pledge went to Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, of which Laurance Rockefeller is chairman and where Nelson's wife recently underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous breast.

News of many cash gifts to associates of the former New York governor came to light during his vice presidential confirmation hearings.

DENVER (AP) — Dita Beard, the lobbyist whose memo allegedly linked International Telephone & Telegraph's antitrust settlement to a Republican party donation, has been back in the hospital.

She was hospitalized here in 1972, when news reports said she was visited by Watergate burglar and White House plumber E. Howard Hunt disguised in a red wig.

Mrs. Beard ended her current stay at Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital on Wednesday, but her doctor declined to say what she was treated for.

ROME, Italy (AP) — Some delegates expect the World Food Conference to accomplish nothing, others expect concrete resolutions but caution that followup action will be necessary. French economist Rene Dumont is urging the 1,200 persons attending the conference from more than 100 nations to join him in a symbolic fast on Nov. 13 and dedicate the money they save to feed some of the hungry in Asia and Africa. Meanwhile, Canada pledged a million tons of grain annually for the next three years, or a tenth of the proposed minimum target of 10 million tons of food aid.

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, who leaves Saturday for an official visit to the United States, says Austria is determined to continue acting as a transfer point for Jewish emigres from the Soviet Union, despite the closing last year of the Schoenau transit camp. The flow of immigrants has never halted, the 62-year-old Socialist leader said in an interview. Instead other camps were arranged for them. But Kreisky said if the rate of immigration increases to 60,000 a year, it will be too many for Austria to handle alone and "other countries must take over a share of the burden."

MOSCOW (AP) — Opening the annual Red Square celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution, Defense Minister Andrei Grechko said today that peaceful coexistence is gaining strength but the "forces of reaction and aggression" require an increase in Soviet defensive might. The parade included tanks, artillery and intercontinental ballistic missiles, but no new weapons were identified.

PORT HARDY, B.C. (AP) — Can an isolated island community which has long complained of neglect from British Columbia and Canadian officials find happiness as part of Alaska and the United States? Even the leader of the secessionist movement in the Mount Waddington Regional District admits he doesn't know, but he says he is anxious to try. Last month the District Board voted to propose the move to the governor of Alaska, naming Port Hardy Mayor Brian Klaver as ambassador to the 49th state. Klaver said Wednesday there had been no reply to the letter, mailed about two weeks ago.

Based on Miller's report, Sirica said, "it may be that someone will have to go to San Clemente and take his deposition on videotape."

Sirica emphasized, however, that he had made no final decision on how to get Nixon's testimony.

Nixon has been subpoenaed by both the prosecution and by defendant John D. Ehrlichman.

The prosecution has indicated that it hopes to be able to make its case without Nixon's testimony.

Medicare handbook revised

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A new edition of "Your Medicare Handbook" is being mailed to 23.5 million people across the nation, according to Gary Eason, Social Security district manager.

"The new 1974 handbook is smaller and easier to handle than previous editions," Eason said. "A copy should be in the hands of everyone who has Medicare health care insurance protection by the end of November." The completely new edition is a result of major amendments made in the Medicare program in the past two years.

"The new handbook explains in detail how Medicare hospital and medical insurance work," Eason said. "It tells what kinds of care Medicare covers and how much Medicare pays for each kind of care. It also tells what Medicare does not cover." An index in the new handbook will help people quickly locate information about a particular Medicare subject, Eason noted.

"When people get their new Medicare handbook, they should throw away any old editions they have," he said. "They should keep the new 1974 edition where they can find it when they need information about Medicare."

Medicare helps pay the health care bills of people 65 and over, disabled people who have been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months and many people with chronic kidney disease.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Cape Girardeau office is located at 339 Broadway. The phone number is 334-5281.

Hope fading for balanced federal budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration hopes that President Ford can balance the federal budget for the first time in seven years are fading fast, Treasury Department officials believe.

They chiefly blame the sagging economy, which they feel will reduce the revenues the government would obtain in corporate and individual income taxes. In addition, they expect new spending pressures from Congress to ease recession and unemployment.

"My guess at the moment is that the revenue prospect for fiscal 1976 makes it difficult to assure a balanced budget for that year," said Sidney Jones, counselor to Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

"The challenge for 1976 is to keep the spending side of the budget under control," said Jones in an interview. "There is a great risk of it getting out of hand."

Another key Treasury official, who did not want to be quoted by name, agreed with Jones' assessment that a balanced budget would be difficult to achieve, especially because of the sagging economy.

In addition, this official said Tuesday's election results, which gave substantial gains to the Democrats, means "we will end up with an extremely liberal 94th Congress.

"Congress will find it extremely difficult to resist big spending."

The Ford administration strategy will be to get as much of its economic program through the final weeks of the lame-duck 93rd Congress, including the 5 per cent income surtax, which already has met with considerable opposition.

Jones said the administration feels the Ford tax program — which also includes an increase in the investment tax credit and tax exemptions for dividends on preferred stock — will stand a better chance of passage in the existing Congress.

In a speech in Chicago Wednesday night, Simon said, in effect, that the existing Congress will be irresponsible if it fails to enact the Ford program promptly.

"If the Congress refuses to act in the next few weeks, we should recognize that position for what it is — a conscious, deliberate decision to let inflation rage on," Simon said.

But Simon, Jones and other officials made clear the administration will fight any move in the next Congress to reimpose wage and price controls, although they acknowledged there might be increased pressure for such controls.

Ambulance ready for service

Missouri Delta Community Hospital's two new ambulances are ready for service after months of waiting. Members of the hospital staff and Jaycees, who donated funds to purchase the ambulances, met Wednesday to inspect the equipment in one of the new units. Accidental gunshot fatal to woman

CHAFFEE — A rural Chaffee woman died of accidental gunshot wounds Wednesday, Scott County Coroner Gene Nunnelee and Cape Girardeau County Coroner George Rouse have ruled.

Doris Jean Diebold, 20, of Route One was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau following the accidental discharge of a seven-millimeter magnum rifle about 1:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred while Mrs. Diebold was helping her husband, Vincent Diebold, place the stock of the weapon in a vise following repairs he had made on it, Nunnelee said this morning.

The bolt action mechanism released as the vise was tightened, Nunnelee said, causing the discharge of the bullet. The couple did not realize the gun contained a cartridge, Nunnelee added.

Following the accident, Diebold called the Cape Girardeau Ambulance Service, telling them to alert the hospital that he was bringing in an accidental gunshot victim in his car. She was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

Diebold buys, repairs and sells old weapons, Nunnelee said, and was repairing the weapon for a customer in Cape Girardeau.

The investigation was conducted jointly by the Scott County sheriff's department, Nunnelee and Rouse.

Mrs. Diebold was born Nov. 26, 1953 at Cape Girardeau to Michael Frank and Mary Ann Schulte Blattel of New Hamburg, who survive.

She was a member of St. Lawrence Catholic Church at New Hamburg and was a 1972 graduate of Kelly High School at Benton.

She and Diebold were married on May 5, 1973.

Meeting to evaluate proposed program

EAST PRAIRIE — The East Prairie R-2 School District board of education is sponsoring a banquet meeting at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 15 in the A. J. Martin Elementary School cafeteria and have invited representatives from local business firms as their guests.

The purpose of the meeting is to evaluate a school- community - student work program for possible implementation into the high school curriculum for the 1975-76 school year.

Lester Kesterson, a representative of the State Department of Education, will present a slide program on the work study program. Business leaders of the community will be surveyed to assess need and interest in the proposed program, which is designed to permit students to work part-time during school hours an still meet graduation requirements.

Lawayne Law, high school principal, said letters of invitation have been mailed to local business firms requesting that they be represented at the meeting. Representatives of the firms are asked to phone the principal's office (649-3509), giving the names and number of persons planning to attend the banquet.

In the event any businesses have been overlooked and do not receive a letter of invitation, they are also asked to contact the school to notify school officials of their desire to attend.

Nixon's testimony may be taken on videotape

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said today that former President Richard M. Nixon's testimony in the Watergate cover-up trial may have to be taken on videotape in California.

Sirica made the comment after Nixon's attorney, Herbert J. Miller, reported to Sirica that it will be at least two or three months before Nixon can exert any substantial mental or physical effort.

Reporting on Nixon's health as required by Sirica, Miller said it will be an indeterminant time before Nixon can travel any significant distance.

Nixon, hospitalized in Long Beach, Calif., was reported Wednesday to have contracted a slight case of pneumonia, further complicating his condition. He underwent surgery last week for a blood clotting condition.

Miller said he spoke with Nixon's personal physician, Dr. John Lungren, who gave him a detailed description of Nion's condition.

Miller said Nixon is likely to remain hospitalized for another 10 days or two weeks.

"Because of the patient's weakened condition," Miller said, "it is expected that the earliest time he could participate, without a serious danger to his health, in any activity requiring substantial mental or physical effort would be two to three months."

The report also noted that only members of Nixon's family are allowed to visit for only five minutes of each hour.

"The patient is very weak and easily fatigued," Miller

New Madrid man still missing

NEW MADRID — The New Madrid County sheriff's department is continuing efforts to locate B. J. Rooker Jr., 30, who disappeared a week ago after leaving the home of his parents on a bicycle.

The night before he disappeared, Rooker was involved in a traffic accident in which his younger brother, Jimmy, 18, was fatally injured.

City Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees said today that information had been received that Rooker had bought a bus ticket Friday to Cape Girardeau, where he formerly lived, and that it is believed he may be in that area.

A Sikeston man found a bicycle Saturday in the old city dump across the levee and discovered that it matched the description of the one Rooker was riding. The man took it to New Madrid and Rooker's mother confirmed identification of it, Dees said.

Miner will get no grants

Miner's rejection Tuesday of a proposal to become a fourth-class city has killed any chance of the village getting a sewer grant or any other kind of major federal grants, according to Phil Shelton, director of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

Miner voters rejected the proposal, 92-28. The question had been placed on the ballot after the Board of trustees received a petition calling for the election that had been signed by 250 people.

Shelton said the planning commission was disappointed by the outcome of the vote. He said the BRPC had been working on a sewer proposal for Miner involving a federal grant covering 80 per cent of the cost.

He said Miner is not eligible for major federal grants requiring large bond issues, as long as it remains a village because Miner does not have the bonding power required for the grant.

He pointed out the village has a number of motels, all of which use sewer lagoons. A sewer system would have speeded growth in an area already growing rapidly, he said.

Occupational survey forms sent to counties

MALDEN-The Missouri Division of Employment Security and Bootheel Industrial Development Council are mailing occupational survey forms this month to all residents in the six counties of Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Stoddard, Pat Lea, chairman of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, announced today.

The survey forms will be tabulated by data processing, and final results will be used in completing community profiles. The profiles are factual information sheets used by the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development and other agencies working to located industry in the area.

If profiles are not on record with these agencies, Bootheel communities will have fewer chances to grow, Lea stated.

New and expanding industries require knowledge of professional skills, jobs, years of experience, type of education and age when considering our area for possible location.

Employment Security managers Dee Lambert of the Sikeston office, James Storey of the Kennett office and Floyd Drew of the Caruthersville office urge each resident between the ages of 16 and 65 to fill out the questionnaire, regardless of occupation or employment. The completed forms need not be signed and should be returned in the envelope provided not later than Dec. 18. All replies will be kept strictly confidential.

Cooperating with the three organizations are all of the cities and towns in the six-county Bootheel area. Additional forms will be placed in banks.

Madrid board hears gripes on garbage, sewer problems

NEW MADRID — During a special meeting Wednesday night, called because of the lack of a quorum for Monday night's regular meeting, the Board of Aldermen was besieged with complaints concerning trash and garbage disposal and sewer problems.

Bobby Daniels, 708 Mitchell St., again came before the board protesting the addition of a $2.25 monthly trash and garbage pickup charge to his light and water bill. Daniels refused to pay a bill due Oct. 25, and the city cut off his electrical service.

Daniels told the council that he is now operating his lights and appliances by means of a portable electrical generator. He told the council he would not pay the bill and was seeking legal action.

The Board members advised him to go ahead and pay the charge under protest so he could receive the services until a legal decision is made. Daniels refused the offer. His main objection appears to be that he must set his garbage containers at curbside in order to receive the service.

Mike Brown, who lives in West Acres subdivision, requested that the council agree in writing to clean out any obstructions that might be caused in his sewer line in the future as a result of the city making a connection to his line. The council approved the request.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet, 1111 Scott St., requested the board to tell them about progress in sewer improvements needed near their home. They were informed that right of way for a new sewer line is being obtained and that work would begin as soon as possible.

City Administrator Don Lloyd told the board about a citizens request for a four-way stop sign at the intersection of Capitol and Mott streets in order to slow traffic entering Mott Street from the recently blacktopped old Kingshighway.

Mayor Jim Cravens appointed Marshal Virgil "Flip" Dees and Alderman Ed LaValle and Bill Boyd to a committee to study the request and the need for traffic control at any other intersections in the city.

The director's hat, gloves and baton used by the late Keith Collins will be presented to Sikeston High School during a special halftime ceremony at the Sikeston-Poplar Bluff football game Friday night at Public School Stadium.

The presentation will be made by Collins's widow to Roger Sherman, principal of the high school. The hat, gloves and baton will be placed on permanent display in the high school library.

The presentation will be part of a halftime tribute to Collins.

Pat Curry, the present band director, said the tribute will come at the end of the regular show. The senior band will be joined by the freshman band and the three high school concert choirs.

Keith Collins

The group will perform "America the Beautiful", to be followed by Mrs. Collins's presentation. The tribute will be concluded with he choir and band performing the Red and Black school song.

HOMESTEADING,
1974 STYLE

In the annals of American history, the practice of "homesteading" has played a great role, with Oklahoma standing out as one of the great states to be populated by homesteaders. On April 22, 1889, ten thousand persons congregated to stake land claims along the line of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway. The 1,887,640 acres of land thus claimed are located in what is now central Oklahoma. But this event, dramatic though it was, was to be completely overshadowed on September 16, 1893. It was on that date that six million more acres, purchased by the U.S. Government from the Cherokees, were opened for homestead sites. No one will ever know exactly how many people showed up that day to make the run into the Cherokee Strip, but it is known to have exceeded 100,000. The story of that event has been told and retold in dozens of novels, movies, poems, and literary works of every description. And not a small part of that story involved the great heroism, courage, and durability of those folk who managed, not just to make the "run" and stake their claims, but to survive and persevere through the lean fall, bitter winter, and long hard summer to follow in those years of 1893 and 1894.

It is certainly appropriate, then, as we approach our Bicentennail celebration, that the practice of homesteading is being brought back. First in Wilmington, Delaware, and now in Washington, D.C., selected families chosen by lottery are "staking their claims" to abandoned and dilapidated government - owned houses for the price of $1. In return, the families agree to fix the houses and live in them for five years. It is estimated that it will cost anywhere from $15,000 to $25,000 to bring the places into good repair. And, if the family sticks it out, in five years time they will own the homes, free and clear.

It's a great idea. Not only will it give deserving and ambitious folks a new start on life and an opportunity to work their way up in the same tradition as the homesteaders of yesteryear, but it is certainly a better bargain from the taxpayers' point of view.

Taxpayers may enjoy the tropical haven for $150 a day (per couple). The sunken baths, private pools and free-flowing liquor are "cordoned off from the common folk of Haiti by a wall of broken glass jutting out from the resort's cliffs," Scherle reports.

A THANKSGIVING CLASSIC
Thanksgiving Day

Over the river and through the wood,
To grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way
To carry the sleigh Through the white and drifted snow.

Over the river and through the wood,
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes
And bites the nose, As over the ground we go.

Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play.
Hear the bells ring,
"Ting-a-ling-ding!" Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!

Over the river and through the wood,
Trot fast, my dapple-gray!
Spring over the ground
Like a hunting-hound For this is Thanksgiving Day.

Over the river and through the wood,
And straight through the barnyard gate.
We seem to go
Extremely slow,— It is so hard to wait!

Over the river and throught the wood,
Now grandmother's cap I spy!
Hurrah for the fun!
Is the pudding done? Hurrah for the pumpkin-pie!

THE LAST WORD

A number of the old sayings make more sense if you just drop the last word. For instance: Familiarity breeds. Blondes have more. An apple a day keeps the doctor. Dead men don't. Money is at the root of all. Fools rush in where agels fear to. Nothing's so rare as a day in. Beauty is only skin. Hell hath no fury like a woman.

PUBLIC BENEFITS FROM COMPETITION

Man, by his very nature, is a competitive being. Americans are uniquely so. Our love of sports, which mirror the competitive instinct in its most elementary sense, is an example.

Economic competition, though a bit harder to comprehend, is still one of our most basic instincts and is responsible for much we have accomplished in our relatively brief 198 years of history. Company A and Company B produce similar products. To prosper, one must perform some aspect of its function better than the other; lower prices better quality, superior service, more varied choice—the possibilities are endless.

The point is that to win customer approval, they must compete. And everyone benefits from the results, particularly the public whose favor is so ardently courted. Our standard of living, unmatched in history, is a monument to the long term benefits of a competitive enterprise system.

This system needs support, not discouragement if it is to continue doing the job it does so well. The market must remain free, with the consumer the ultimate arbiter in deciding what goes and what stays. Government decision-making in the market process does disservice to those who consume. After all, if production here was determined by some obscure bureaucrat in Washington, we might still be buying Edsel, Kaisers and Hupmobiles.

LAUGHS YOU CAN SHARE

Humor is where you find it. But would you expect to find it buried in a claim form submitted to an insurance company?

The fact is, according to the Health Insurance Institute, that on occasion these documents unintentionally read like a comedy script.

The following are seriously-intended comments that have turned routine insurance reports into startling ones:

"I was simply driving down the street and there was this tree in the middle of the road."

"I am writing to say that my baby was born two years old. When do I get the money;"

"Patient is reasonably comfortable as long as he is not required to do any work of any kind."

"A pedestrian hit me and went under my car."

Then there was the doctor who told it exactly like it was. He wrote: "Patient hit by truck. No neurologic function. No respiration. No cardiac action. Condition incompatible with life."

And a woman sent this chiller: "I am glad to report that my husband who was reported missing is dead."

Then there are those who try to follow instructions to the letter. Replied this new mother: "I have given births to twins in the enclosed envelope."

Another mother had this understated question: "You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make a difference?"

And then there were these eye openers:

"I have no children as yet as my husband is a bus driver and works night and day."

"I was dancing the jitterbug at a party when right leg let go."

"Policyowner was attending a safety award meeting and was struck by an award -- a desk clock -- and chipped a front tooth."

Among the Institute's favorites was this note from an anxious young mother: "In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy weighing 10 pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

And these are reasons enough why not to take oneself quite so seriously.

MISSING SOME BUCKS?

SALESMEN ARE PERSISTANT...like the one who finally got into the tycoon's inner office. "This speaks well for your power of persuasion that you got in 'cause I've thrown out 14 other salesmen today." "I know," said the salesman. "I'm all of them."

The next time one of these persistent individuals comes in, make use of him. Pin him down as to how much co- op advertising his company has to offer...and then make use of these programs.

Month after month we hear of firms whose co- op ad bucks are not being used mainly because the retailer doesn't know anything about the fund. Many times the salesmen are so intent on getting your name on his order book that he doesn't tell you of his firm's co- op program. Don't let him get out of the store until he gives you the details of their program. Then call us and we will be happy to help work out a schedule that will help you realize more sales.

MEETING A NEW THREAT

Time after time, in war, in peace, during prosperity or economic adversity, the nation has had occasion to call on the resources of private enterprise for help in resolving situations that threatened national well-being. Such a situation has now arisen in the case of drug abuse. The U.S. prescription drug industry has offered its full cooperation with government in a search for ways to eliminate or control narcotic addiction. As a research- oriented industry, the country's major pharmaceutical manufacturing concerns can make an incalculable contribution to this health problem that is reaching epidemic proportions.

A spokesman for the pharmaceutical industry, while warning that there is no quick or easy answer to the problems of bringing narcotic addiction under control, declares: "....We are keenly aware that the sheer complexity and social consequence of the problem make it mandatory for our activities to be linked with what others are doing in university and government laboratories, in private and public programs of all kinds and at all levels, and insofar as possible with what other nations are doing. Fortunately, what we represent and what we can contribute is a highly specialized resource for research and development in chemistry and biology related to the evolution of compounds for use in man. And we welcome the opportunity to bring that resource increasingly to bear on a problem of critical importance, just as we have in the past. We hope and believe our resources can hasten the availability of better ways to control narcotic addiction...."

The key words in this drug industry spokesman's statement are: "....just as we have in the past...." Largely, through the specialized resources of America's pharmaceutical manufacturers, most of mankind's most ancient and dreaded diseases..smallpox, typhoid, polio, etc.-- have become evils of a bygone era. No 90- day wonder can be expected to end the curse of narcotic addiction, but it is comforting to know that the pharmaceutical industry, which has long been subjected to unjustified political attacks, is centering its attention on a new threat to human health-- in the best tradition of private enterprise.

WHERE THE POSER OPERATES

One of the basic causes of the War for Independence 200 years ago was labeled "taxation without representation." What the founders of the U. S. were talking about was the fact that they were governed by people selected by others, not elected by the people. The colonists in America considered themselves to possess all the rights of Englishmen, including the right of self-government.

The King took a different view. Parliament acted too slowly to restore the rights of citizens to the colonists, so the colonists restored them for themselves and England lost the American colonies.

Today we find ourselves governed by millions of people we have never elected to office. Taxes are heaped upon taxes by those who benefit from the treasury, while the taxpayers find themselves virtually powerless to turn the tide.

One out of six employed persons is now on federal, state or local government payrolls. That totals nearly 15 million persons. No longer are these individuals simply low-paid clerks who carry out policies established by the people's elected representatives. They now constitute a powerful, self-perpetuation policy-making bureaucratic elite which not even a President as popular and powerful as John F. Kennedy was able to control, as he himself noted. This is not a healthy situation for our Republic. Freedom cannot survive unless the people and their elected representatives regain control of government from the agency and department bureaucrats who really are the government, regardless of the party in power.

Big Man's Shadow: Are Strikes Inevitable?

WASHINGTON — Once upon a time there were two of the toughest men I've ever known as man and boy reporter. One was President Harry Truman. There was war in Korea. There was a strike in the coal fields. And there was the leonine mine workers' president, John L. Lewis. They disliked each other. "Mister" Lewis had not been to the White House -- once his habitat -- for a long time.

David Cole was in those days, and still is, adviser to presidents and dean of mediators. He knew that Mr. Truman had said the coal digging stoppage was "one of the worst crises I've ever been in" (expletives deleted). So Dave Cole, director of the mediation service, finally prevailed on both strong men to meet. They did. In the Oval Office.

They were superficially polite to each other. John L. was doing a slow burn because the chairman of the Korean War era Wage Stabilization Board, chap by the name of Archibald Cox (yes, the same), had sliced six cents an hour from the pact "Mister" Lewis had made with the coal mine owners.

Despite Dave Cole's soothing words and presence, peacemaking wasn't going well. They were stubborn giants then. Finally, Harry Truman said to the president of the striking United Mine Workers (UMW), "Come and see what they've done to my house, I won't be here long, you know." It was 1952 and the mansion had just been renovated. So they went upstairs. They sauntered through the private living quarters as Mr. Truman pointed out famed curios and gifts. He stopped before a small marble-topped oval table. Said he: "This is my very favorite. Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation on it."

"Do you mind if I touch it?" asked the Shakespearean John Lewis, his dramatic face alight in the glow of the sheer presence of history and the reminiscence of a nation ripped in bloody fratricide.

President Truman said, "Of course not." Dave Cole smiled gently as the two strong men stood there stroking the table. It was then about 9 p.m.

"Mr. President," said John Lewis, "the coal miners will be back at work tomorrow morning."

They were. President Truman turned to other crises. Dave Cole turned to other problems. Archibald Cox soon enough returned to Harvard.

Now, as then, there is no need for men to rip this country apart during national crises. This must have bren obvious to UMW president Arnold Miller as he sat with President Jerry Ford in the same Oval Office last Wednesday (Oct. 29) shortly after noontime -- 22 years later. The President and the coal diggers' union chief -- as have their predecessors way back to Theodore Roosevelt's time -- talked about the "strike." But only for a few minutes of their half-hour conference in the presence of today's mediation chief Bill Usery.

There were other problems to discuss. This nation needs a huge supply of flowing energy. Some 600 million tons of coal now are dug annually. At least a billioin tons will be needed by 1980 to free this nation from oil boycott threats abroad. That's what the President of the U. S. and the president of the country's unionized soft coal diggers discussed. It is one nation but at the moment it appears mighty divisible.

Further, there isn't an oversupply of coal above ground. Bethlehem Steel Corp. has warned it would have to begin laying off men and shutting down its big mills in theee days after the start of a strike. U. S. Steel gave itself another 10 days. The Tennessee Valley Authority power houses are in sharp trouble. But Miller sounded optimistic -- at least in the President's presence.

However, he did not tell the President that he had dispatched four of his trusted aides to the national AFL-CIO headquarters here the morning of Oct. 18. There they conferred with one of the nation's most effective specialists in mass relief projects -- be they floods or strikes.

He is Leo Perlis, director of the big federation's Community Services. Perlis can call on tens of thousands of special counsellors, set up liaison with thousands of welfare and other relief state and local agencies -- all the way from food stamps to medical facilities. Under Perlis are some 200 full-time Community Service field assistants.

This is the apparatus the UMW delegation wanted activated to help 120,000 coal diggers and their families in the event of a strike -- which they said was certain to come.

Delegation spokesmen (there was one woman), said the mine union would need heavy relief aid in seven states in which coal digging is concentrated and in 14 other states where there are bituminoous, though scattered, pits. Perlis put the machine in high gear. He dispatched speakers to miners' meetings. He sent letters to scores of relief agencies.

By the morning of Oct. 31, the UMW was set for full-fledged industrial warfare against the nation's coal operators. It all appears so outmoded -- like kerosene lamps.

There ought to be a better way to settle things. No one who has been down a pit can come up unfrightened -- except the coal diggers. No one can say the miners have not had a strong case for most of their demands. No one can deny, either, that some of these demands are extreme. Nor can anyone ignore the ability of the corporations to grant considerable of these demands. The operators haven't cried poverty. Why then months of tension?

This nation is in a crisis. It's later than you think. Men of good will can settle anything without disestablishing the economy. Perhaps Dave Cole should lead them back to that small marble-topped table over which a tall bearded man once bent to sign a document. Perhaps there can be a new Emancipation Proclamation to end the ritual rounds of civil war on the economic front. It's like today's ruinous high prices, a luxury this country no longer can afford.

WASHINGTON--Anyone who moves as fast as Henry Kissinger is bound to get things mixed up. What with all the flying around and talking to so many heads of state, it's no wonder that when he reports back to the President in Washington the conversation could go something like this.

"Well, Henry, how did it go?"

"Very well, Mr. President,. I got Madame Gandhi to lower her price of oil to $10 a barrel."

"India doesn't export any oil, Henry."

"It doesn't ? No wonder she was so eager to do it."

"How did things go in the Soviet union?"

"Fine, Mr. President. We're giving Brezhnev an atomic energy plant."

"You weren't supposed to give the Soviets an atomic energy plant. You were supposed to persuade them to cut back on nuclear weapons."

"But I got Bangladesh to cut back on nuclear weapons. They promised not to make any this year."

"We don't care if Bangladesh makes weapons or not. What happened to you over there, Henry?"

"I was moving all over the place, Mr. President. It's hard to keep all those countries straight. Who was supposed to get the atomic energy plant?"

"Sadat of Egypt."

"Oh, so that's it. I asked Sadat if we could us his landing fields to supply Israel."

"You were supposed to ask Portugal that, Henry."

Henry."

"Of course, Mr. President, how stupid of me."

"What (ital) did (unital) you ask Portugal, Henry?"

"I asked them to give up the Sinai and get out of the West Bank of the Jordon."

"What did Portugal say, Henry?"

"They said okay."

"I don't know how to break this to you' Henry, but Portugal is not occupying the Sinai. They're occupying Mozambique."

"That's funny. I asked Israel to give up Mozambique."

"What did (ital) they (unital) say?"

"They said okay."

"You really must be tired, Henry."

"Oh, I am, Mr. President, but the trip was worth it. We're giving the Shah of Iran 2 billion bushels of wheat."

"(ital) Giving (unital) him 2 billion bushels of wheat?"

"Yup, as part of our aid program."

"Henry, do you know that because of his oil exports the Shah of Iran now has more dollars than we do?"

"I thought that was Italy."

"Italy's broke, Henry. You should have promisedthe wheat to Italy."

"Darn,. Italy and Iran sound so much alike I always get them mixed up."

"What about the French, Henry?"

"Don't worry about the French, Mr. President. You can inform Sen. Henry Jackson the French have agreed on a new emigration policy for their Jews."

"You were supposed to get the Soviets to agree to that!"

"I was? No wonder the French didn't argue with me. I'm telling you, this jet lad is something."

"Okay, Henry, it's all my fault. I shouldn't have let you go to so many countries. Did you see the Pope in Rome?"

"I had a private audience with him and gave him your message, Mr. President."

"Which was?"

"You'd like to buy 12 squadrons of Grumman Hellcat fighter planes from us."

"Henry, let me ask you one last question. If you asked the Pope to buy Grumman fighter planes, whom did you ask to pray for us?"

"King Faisal?"

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Those ITT Bugs

WASHINGTON — We have gotten ourselves into another brouhaha with International Telephone and Telegraph.

This has caused the State Department to seek a criminal investigation of the multinational, multibillion-dollar conglomerate.

On October 2, we reported that ITT had placed a bugging expert inside the late President Salvador Allende's palace in Chile. Our story was based on ITT evidence, which escaped the shredder and was slipped to my associate Lew Whitten on a downtown Washington street corner.

Whitten double-checked the facts in the documents and then called ITT for comment. Without waiting for the story to appear, ITT's press chief Robert Sykes wired denials to many of our client papers.

Let's try to sort out the facts. In 1971, ITT plotted with the Central Intelligence Agency to keep Allende out of office. When this failed, the conglomerate tried to bring about Chile's economic collapse, hoping it would trigger a military coup.

We reported that ITT had conspired with Chilean militarists. Sykes objected that the CIA, not ITT, had done the plotting. This was followed by a shamefaced second wire from Sykes, retracting the charge against the CIA and laying the blame instead upon "unidentified persons."

ITT was in the midst of its skulduggery against Allende in 1971 when it quietly dispatched John Ragan, a master bugging technician, to Chile with a load of electronic gear.

ITT has now come up with the asonishing explanation that Ragan was supposed to help Allende de-bug his palace and two residences.

This would have been an odd mission, to say the least, for ITT to undertake while it was trying to foment a military uprising against Allende. Some might even suspect that ITT had hired the electronic expert to plant bugs rather than remove them.

As for us, we reported only what we could prove. We wrote that Ragan had gained access to the presidential premises, whether to bug or to d-bug we did not say.

Sykes, meanwhile, claimed that Ragan had been sent to Chile by ITT "at Dr. Allende's request." Fine, we said. Show us a copy of the request with Allende's signature.

ITT backed down again. It was not really Allende, said the company, but an unidentified aide who had requested the bugging expert.

We got into another hassle with ITT by insisting upon a certified signature. "Ridiculous," protested the company.

Ridiculous? A few days later, The New York Times accused ITT of chemically altering vital documents in a $12 million suit, a charge that the conglomerate was obliged to admit.

In flying the bugging equipment to Chile, we have now learned, ITT failed to get a State Department license. Bugging equipment suitable for military use requires a license, subject to a fine of $25,000 and two years in jail.

In its own letters, ITT has conceded that "offensive bugs" -- in other words devices used for bugging rather than de-bugging -- were "taken to Chile by Ragan." In Chile, according to these documents, "Ragan worked with the army and police."

Ragan has also acknowledged that bugging equipment was left in Chile for army and police use. Clearly, therefore, the bugs were suitable for military use. After we pointed this out, the State Department asked for a criminal investigation of ITT.

By leaving New York with the equipment, ITT may have violated another criminal law, even though certain exemptions are allowed for "common carriers" like ITT. If the bugs were not used by ITT in the "normal course of business," ITT officials could be subject to another $10,000 fine and five years in jail.

In its hurry to deny everything, ITT also denied making "approaches of any kind whatsoever to the Chilean military at any time." This conflicts with an ITT admission that its master bugging consultant Ragan was in contact with the Chilean military.

Indeed, Ragan's own secret notes on his meetings in Chile gave the coded names of military officers he met.

Another confidential document describes how Ragan, while on a contractual basis with the RepublicanNational Committee, received a telephone call from an ex-FBI associate, Russ Tagliareni.

Tagliareni happens to be ITT's assistant security director. Together, Tagliareni and Ragan flew to Chile, according to the document, as part of Ragan's 11-day mission. Ragan "received $200 a day for his duties," and at one point actually met Allende, adds the document.

These are some of the facts that ITT has neglected to mention in the denials it has been firing around the country. In the past, ITT has dissembled about the famous Dita Beard memo, shredded documents to destroy evidence and misled the Congress in testimony.

Before the evidence disappears on the Chile mission, we suggest it should be subpoenaed.

FOOTNOTE In similar cases of companies failing to get licenses for exporting electronic equipment, the Justice Department has obtained indictments. The firms, however, have always been small. An ITT spokesman told us that the conglomerate needed no license from the State Department for the bugs.

R-1 staff to participate in workshops

HOWARDVILLE — Students in New Madrid County R-1 district schools will be dismissed Friday while all certified and non-certified staff members participate in in-service workshops in each of the units. The Missouri State Teachers Association convention also will be in session at this time, and 12 delegates from R-1 district schools will attend.

A regional workshop sponsored by the state commissioner of education is scheduled Wednesday at the vocational complex. About 300 citizens, school board members, students, teachers and administrators representing 50 school districts over Southeast Missouri are expected to attend.

The workshop this year will consider vocational programs and the students' future.

Bobby Simmons, an R-1 instructor in auto body and fender repair, has been selected to serve on a statewide curriculum committee. This committee will meet throughout the year to revise and update auto body and fender repair instruction in all vocational schools, according to Bob Robison of the trades and industries section in the State Department of Education.

Several district schools have begun a breakfast program, in addition to Portageville, where the program has been in operation for several years. Students eligible for free lunches are also eligible for free breakfasts. Other students may participate for 10 cents, or a reduced price of five cents, and adults may participate for 30 cents.

The government reimbursement is such that this program is provided at very little cost to the district.

Supt. Ray Melton said the open house programs held during American Education Week were well attended by the public and that the board of education and staff were pleased with the interest shown in the schools

Melton also reported that parents of kindergarten students had been responsive and cooperative in arranging parent-teacher conferences instead of receiving a traditional report card.

Fire damages

Dexter home

DEXTER — The Robert Cochran home on Highway 114 East received slight damage when a fire broke out in the back of the house Wednesday afternoon.

According to Fire Chief Al Banken, the fire is believed to have been started by an electrical short circuit or a faulty vent pipe.

8 treated

Eight accident patients were treated and released in the emergency room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Treated were: Abram Huffman, 23, Bernie, minor bruises and scratches in truck accident; Betty Huffman, 39, Bernie, bruised back in truck accident; Toni Pretti, 2, Sikeston, scratched lower lip in fall against steps; Phillip Knight, 6, Charleston, bruised finger, slammed car door on left index finger.

Nixon contracts slight case of pneumonia

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is suffering from yet another medical complication: a slight case of pneumonia in his partially collapsed right lung.

Known as pneumonitis, the condition was apparently not considered serious. Dr. John C. Lungren said his patient is exhibiting over-all "slow but gradual improvement" since his brush with death last week following phlebitis surgery.

"He's ready to face the world again and fight back," reported a source close to Nixon. "He's not depressed anymore but he's grouchy."

Nixon, 61, hopes to be able to walk well enough soon to greet his wife, Pat, at his hospital room door, hospital spokesman Norman Nager said Wednesday. Nixon has been taking brief walks, assisted by nurses, around his room at Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

The pneumonitis, which Lungren said was being combatted with antibiotics, was presumably responsible for the partial collapse of the lung.

"The pneumonitis was determined by tests," Lungren said Wednesday in a written statement.

Civil Air Patrol offers Aerospace education

The Civil Air Patrol offers educational opportunities for teen-agers interested in the aerospace field, the Sikeston Lions Club was informed at its meeting Wednesday by Earl Cook, a Lions Club as well as CAP member, and Hugh McCollum, commanding officer of the CAP unit.

Cook said the CAP is an auxiliary of the U.S. Air Force which has search and rescue and motivating youth to become interested in the aerospace field as its chief goals.

The Sikeston unit is one of 23 squadrons in the state, Cook said.

McCollum said the CAP youth program provides an aviation ground school for teen-agers.

After the ground school training, the youth should be able to pass a private pilot's written examination, McCollum said.

There is also a chance for the youth to attend summer camp and flight school, McCollum added.

He said interest among teen-agers in the CAP has dropped since the end of the military draft. However, the CAP is a civilian organization, not a military, one, McCollum stressed.

Two per second

As of 1974, according to the U.S. Census Bureau, the world's population is estimated to be 3.8 billion. With births outpacing deaths, the world's head count is going up at a rate of two more persons a second, nearly 200,000 a day, more than six million a month, and about 76 million a year.

The oldest and most important order of English knighthood is the Order of the Garter, founded in 1346 by King Edward III.

Ann Landers

'The other woman' rates lower than she imagines

Dear Ann Landers: Are you a big enough person to print a letter in defense of "The Other Woman"? I'm one and know that scene well.

I am 27, have never been married (or even asked), have an excellent position and my own apartment. (Nobody keeps me.) I cook when I please, have my own friends and interests, and most important, my own identity, independence and freedom.

I have known this man for eight years. He was married five years ago. I'm more than happy with our "arrangement." Of course I won't get any alimony when (or if) he decides to move on, and I won't collect any insurance when he dies. I do get a bottle of wine now and then and sometimes flowers, but no big gifts. I don't have my lover Sundays or holidays, and not many weekends. But when we are together it's heaven. Our relationship was established because we both wanted it. We've agreed that either of us can call it quits if and when we want to.

Now that you know what I get, I'll tell you what he DOESN'T get. Curlers in bed, dirty dishes in the sink, squawking kids, bills to worry about and lots of nagging. He receives my undivided attention, lots of loving, a back rub when he is tired, and always soft lights and beautiful music. He sleeps with me because he wants to. He sleeps with his wife because he has to.

Call it an ego trip for both of us, if you like, but what's wrong with it if we need and want it? Will you answer me, please?--Nameless, Natch

Dear Natch: There are names for women like you, but I don't believe that a label would serve any useful purpose in a situation such as this.

If it doesn't bother you that this man knew you for three years and then married someone else, you have a pretty tough hide, honey. Moreover, your ego must be awfully hungry if it can be fed by a back-street affair with a man who is eating his cake and having it, too. You, my dear, are settling for crumbs. Some trip!

Dear Ann Landers: I am so furious I just called my lawyer and asked if I could sue you. He said to forget it.

You, Ann Landers, with your stupid advice, have cost me $60 in swimming lessons. My 11-year-old son was always afraid of the water and finally after every ruse imaginable, we got him to agree to take swimming lessons. He has taken six lessons, which cost $10 each.

The teacher said he is still afraid of the water, but at least he is able to float. We considered this great progress. Then you had to come out and announce that you are a "non-swimmer" -- could never learn -- and that did it. Now my son says HE is a non-swimmer, just like Ann Landers. He refuses to go back for more swimming lessons.

You've lost a long-time fan in Florida and I want you to know it. -- A Mother Who Is Mad

Dear Mad: I hate to lose a fan, but facts are facts. I am a "non-swimmer" and confessed it in the hope that I might make that "non-driver" feel better. (Remember the woman in her 60s who took 40 driving lessons and failed the test four times?)

Maybe your son will change his mind. I hope so. Swimmers DO have more fun.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism -- Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Though the tomato originated the America, it was not used as food in the New World until long after Europeans had been eating it. Until the mid-19th century, Americans believed the plant was poisonous and grew it only for ornamentation.

Vikings favored, 28-26

NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, you want action? No delays, just business. So, how about Atlanta over Los Angeles? And Houston over Buffalo!

Far fetched? Maybe — but over the years, a change of coaches in midseason often sets the stage for an upset. This could mean an Atlanta victory. But what about one for Houston?

While you mull over this for a moment, let's report that last week's effort by the Pro Pigskin Picker was 13-0, a perfect slate. It lifted the season's showing to 74-29-1 for .718.

Now back to Atlanta and Houston:

ATLANTA (2-6) at LOS ANGELES (6-2): The Falcons have never won in Los Angeles, but they have a chance to redeem themselves and provide Marion Campbell, Norm Van Brocklin's successor, with his first victory. So, in the Upset Special ... Falcons 21, Rams 20.

HOUSTON (3-5) at BUFFALO (7-1): There's no reason to expect that the Oilers, on their first two-game victory streak since 1971, will make it three. So let's not have an upset here and say ... Bills 31, Oilers 17.

PITTSBURGH (6-1-1) at CINCINNATI (5-3): The injury to Cincinnati running back Boobie Clark tilts the scale to ... Steelers 20, Bengals 16.

WASHINGTON (5-3) at PHILADELPHIA (4-4): The going is too sticky in the NFC East for the Eagles to catch Washington looking ahad to Dallas. So ... Redskins 19, Eagles 17.

SAN FRANCISCO (2-6) at DALLAS (4-4): And the Cowboys won't start thinking about Washington until Sunday night ... Cowboys 24, 49ers 15.

DETROIT (4-4) at OAKLAND (7-1): Guess who has the longest victory streak current in the NFC? Guess who still will have the longest victory streak in the AFC ... Raiders 30, Lions 19.

MIAMI (6-2) at NEW ORLEANS (3-5): New Orleans will still be no worse off than a second-place tie in the NFC West after the scoreboard says ... Dolphins 26, Saints 14.

CLEVELAND (2-6) at NEW ENGLAND (6-2): The Patriots have scored more points than any other NFL team so far. Cleveland has yielded more points than any other club. How about ... Patriots 30, Browns 13.

CHICAGO (3-5) vs. GREEN BAY (3-5) at Milwaukee: Chester Marcol's field goal kicking should help John Hadl register his first victory for Green Bay ... Packers 17, Bears 14.

DENVER (3-4-1) at BALTIMORE (1-7): It's simply a case of the Broncos having more horsepower ... Broncos 35, Colts 10.

SAN DIEGO (2-6) at KANSAS CITY (3-5): With the help of rookie running back Don Woods, San Diego quarterback Dan Fouts should lead his team to its second straight upset ... Chargers 30, Chiefs 27.

NEW YORK JETS (1-7) vs. NEW YORK GIANTS (2-6) at New Haven, Conn.: Is there room in Manhattan for two swingers like the Jets' Joe Namath and the Giants' Craig Morton?... Giants 24, Jets 19.

MINNESOTA (6-2) at ST. LOUIS (7-1): Quarterbacks Jim Hart and Fran Tarkenton will provide the fireworks for the Monday night viewers in a game that could be a preview of the opening match in the NFC divisional playoffs in seven weeks ... Vikings 28, Cardinals 26.

Grid league races tight

The high school football season has two weeks remaining including the Friday night schedule and one of the conference crowns has already been claimed. I-SC has repeated as Bootheel champ.

Hayti just about has the Southern Division wrapped up. The Indians have one conference game left and that with the Portageville Bulldogs. Malden is second with a 4-1 conference slate and have a conference game left with Dexter, who is 3-1-1 in the Division.

The Northern Division is still open with Cape Central still leading the Poplar Bluff Mules by one game with two conference games remaining on the schedule. Friday night the Bengal take on Charleston and if the Bluejays upset the Tigers and the Poplar Bluff Mules defeat the Sikeston Bulldogs in their only remaining game the Division could end up with a two way tie. The Tigers have the Perryville Pirates on the schedule the following week to end the season.

Donkey ball at Essex

Essex-Gray Ridge Lions Club will sponsor a Donkey Ball Game at the Essex gym, Thursday night November 7, 7: p.m. Adults $1.00, children $.50. Door prize. Prominent local people will ride the donkeys.

Bootheel Sports Beat

By Bill Harrison
Daily Standard Sports Writer

By BILL HARRISON

The football season is rapidly coming to a close with just one week of play left for some team after Friday night's game, which closes out some campaigns.

As the weeks passed by our predicters came closer and closer to the perfect night. Last week Eddie Smart lost only one outcome. Maybe Eddie should change his last name.

This may be the week as everyone should have the teams weaknesses and strengths analyzed by now.

Cape Central at Charleston --- I don't know what happened to the Bluejays after they trounced Sikeston. Maybe the Bulldogs just made them look good. Cape 24, Charleston 14.

Jackson at Perryville --- This game is a toss up. Perryville is the favorite --- 14-13.

Kennett Dexter --- The Indians are too big for the Bearcats --- 28-13.

Poplar Bluff at Sikeston --- Mike Moss will show the Bulldogs the back of his jersey on the way to the goal line --- 28-7.

Chaffee at Caruthersville --- The Red Devils will play a good defensive game but lose --- 13-12.

Hayti at Doniphan --- The Indians are favorites --- 34-14.

Malden at Cairo, Ill. --- The greenwave will make it a clean sweep for Missouri teams over the Pilots --- 45-0.

Portageville at I-SC --- The Rams play too much defense for the Bulldogs --- 14-7.

I think I will get started in basketball this week and predict the winner of the Bell City B team tournament.

Bell City looks like the winner. They have decent guards and are big inside. Advance plays good defense but have only one experienced ball player in Steve Vavak. Kelly is tall but lacks experience. Puxico is short and can't contain the bigger teams. If Kelly and Bell City meet in the finals it should be an interesting game. Ed Street's the Kelly B team coach this year. He seems to be playing musical schools. It's his third school in as many years.

Alabama closing in on loop title

By Major Amos B. Hoople
Fearless Forecaster

Egad, friends, the woods — heh-heh — are full of outstanding football contests this weekend. Enough, indeed, to satisfy even the zaniest football filberts! For starters, how about these matchups; Alabama vs. LSU, Florida vs. Georgia, Texas — Baylor, Ohio State vs. Michigan State, Oklahoma — Missouri. Not bad, eh what?

And to the above you can add Southern California vs. Stanford, UCLA — Oregon, Texas A&M vs. SMU, Texas Tech against TCU, Miami of Ohio vs. Kent State, California against Washington, and Virginia meeting Virginia Military Institute for the 69th time. Jove, 't will be some weekend.

Here are the Hoople Computers predictions on these headliners. At Birmingham, the Alabama Crimson Tide will continue its relentless sweep toward another Southeastern crown as they turn back Charley McClendon's LSU Fighting Tigers 28-14. Also in the Southeastern, the Florida Gators will outfight the Georgia Bulldogs to take a narrow 24-21 victory — umkumph!

The Ohio State Buckeyes will have a tussle on their hands but figure to double the score on the revived Michigan State Spartans. We see Ohio State winning 34-17.

The Oklahoma-Missouri fray looks like a high-scoring affair with Joe Washington and his Sooner supporting cast finishing on the long end of a 42-21 count. Texas and Baylor will whack it out in Waco and when the thumping is over Texas will be ahead 34-24.

It's been a lean year for Stanford and the visiting Southern California Trojans don't figure to make it any easier for the Cardinals this Saturday. In the 52nd renewal of this great rivalry, the Trojans, with superlative Anthony Davis leading the way, will prevail 27-10 in this important Pac 8 meeting.

In a pair of Southwestern contests that will have bearing on the league title, Texas A&M will edge SMU, 22-14, and Texas Tech's Red Raiders will blast TCU, 26-7.

The fine Miami Redskin eleven will clinch the Mid-America title and a Tangerine Bowl spot with a 36-14 conquest of Kent State. This Miami club would hold its own against any team in the nation — har-rumph!

California's Golden Bears, enjoying a fine season due to the strong arm of Steve Bartkowski, will rout Washington 26-7, at the same time UCLA's Bruins will whip invading Oregon, 17-10.

In one of the country's oldest rivalries Virginia will entertain VMI at Charlottesville. Usually when the Cavaliers and the Keydets hookup you can throw out the form book, but this year with Scott Gardner, the Cavaliers' one-man gang, leading the way it will be all Virginia, 37-6.

Over in Slippery Rock, Pa., the fabled Slippery Rock Rockets will end their nine-game schedule by grounding the Clarion State Golden Eagles, 28-8 — har-rumph!

Now go on with my forecast.

Marshall claims Cy Young award

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Marshall, the tireless relief pitcher who helped the Los Angeles Dodgers win their first pennant in eight years, was named the National League's Cy Young Award winner today.

Marshall collected 17 of 24 possible first-plact votes to outscore teammate Andy Messersmith, 96 points to 66, and become the first relief pitcher in history to win the coveted prize.

The only other reliever to win a major award from the Baseball Writers Association of America was Jim Konstanty, who was the National League's Most Valuable Player during the "Whiz Kid" days of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

The Dodgers took three of the first four places as Atlanta's Phil Niekro finished third with 15 points and Los Angeles' Don Sutton was fourth with 12.

Messersmith, along with Niekro the only 20-game winners in the National League this year, received five first-place votes. Niekro and Sutton had one each. Pitchers from the National League champion Dodgers thus gained 23 of the 24 first-place votes.

The remainder of the field included Al Hrabosky of St. Louis with nine points; Cincinnati's Jack Billingham, eight; Cincinnati's Don Gullett, five; Clay Carroll of Cincinnati, two, and Pittsburgh's Dave Giusti, Buzz Capra of Atlanta, and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, all one.

A total of 24 writers voted, two from each National League city, and the point total was decided on a basis of five for first place, three for second and one for third.

Marshall appeared in a record-breaking 106 games this past season, an achievement that bettered his own National League standard of 92 set the year before with the Montreal Expos.

He became the first relief pitcher in National League history to qualify for the earned run title with 208 innings. Marshall finished fourth in that category with a 2.42 mark.

The squarely-built right-hander, a controversial figure who is considered somewhat of an intellectual snob, had a 15-12 won-lost record and 21 saves for Los Angeles this year. Indefatigable, Marshall pitched batting practice in between assignments so as not to rust his talents.

"I can pitch as long as I want to, as much as I want to, and as many years as I want to," Marshall once said.

Marshall, now studying for a doctorate in psychology at Michigan State University and teaching at the same school, was given a landslide victory in the Cy Young election from the very people he had disdained — the sports writers.

During the World Series against the Okland A's last October, Marshall refused to talk to writers because, as one reporter put it, "He believes that sports writers are below his station."

Marshall teaches kinesiology, the study of the anatomy in relation to body movements.

Clint Courtney, former major league catcher, manages Richmond, Va., in the International League.

Letters to the Editor

I, Bob Daniels would like to clarify some statements appearing in your article of Nov. 5 regarding my refusal to pay my utility bill.

I did refuse to pay this bill. But only after I was informed by Mr. Don Lloyd, city adm: I could not pay the utility bill without paying the trash bill.

Should I be made to pay for service not rendered? I refuse to carry trash for curb pickup, when I have a alley beside my res: and said alley still being on city map and no record of ever being abandoned.

Publication by New Madrid Weekly record, stated that trash pickup would be by alley or curb side, after the informal meeting with Mayor Jim Cravens & Atterman, I was advised that either means of pickup had been left up to Mr. Jr. Masterson, who has the trash contract with this city.

I do realize the city of New Madrid has a problem of meeting the states requirements for proper disposal of trash. But, do not feel that enough thought was given to this matter and a better means of trash pickup could be made available to the res. of this city.

A monthly charge of $2.25 per. month of which $1.95 being paid to Mr. Masterson and .30 being for billing charge. I feel we should not have to bag and carry our trash to the curb for pickup. And if the plastic bags are damaged or opened by your friendly neighborhood dogs we have trash all over the street and we rebag it and in some cases a refusal of pickup, because of improperly bagged trash.

I have not paid my Utilities and at the present time have my utilities cut-off. I plan to fight this issue and I am in hopes if having my lights turned back on, after fighting for a court injunction. I just hope that more of the Res: of New Madrid feel strong enough about this issue to get something done about it.

Bell employes carry ID

There's an old saying: "To be forewarned is to be forearmed."

Such a warning paid off recently for two Sikeston residents. In both cases, a man describing himself as a telephone employe asked to enter a house to check telephones.

Remembering Southwestern Bell's announcement last summer that all company employes carry identification cards and present them voluntarily, the residents asked to see the man's identification, at which point the would be intruder fled.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. started the voluntary ID program to prevent the possibility of unauthorized persons gaining entry to people's homes under the guise of being telephone employes.

The two incidents served to remind customers never to let any installer or repairman into their home unless they show company identification. All Southwestern Bell employes have photo IDs and present them voluntarily when they come to the door. Also, all telephone company trucks have markings clearly identifying them as company vehicles.

Problems of this sort have not been widespread in the Midwest and, with continued vigilance by customers, they won't be.

Any instance of a person posing as a telephone company employe in order to get into a home should be reported to the police immediately.

Co-captains of Michigan State's 1974 football team are fullback Clarence Bullock of Fort Wayne, Ind., and tackle Jim Taubert of Weymouth, Mass.

OUR BOYS WITH THE COLORS

SAN ANGELO, Tex. — Tech. Sgt. William E. Woodard, son of Doyle Woodard of Advance, Mo., Route One, has been selected outstanding instructor of the quarter in his Air Training Command unit at Goodfellow Air Force Base.

Sgt. Woodard was honored for his effective teaching techniques and exemplary devotion to duty.

The sergeant is a 1960 graduate of Bell City. (Mo.) High School. His wife Glenda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leadbetter of Advance.

What's the law?

The case of the perplexed wife

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Benny appreciated Army life about as much as he appreciated married. life. Consequently, after serving his hitch, he failed to report back to his wife Rosie who was unaware of the fact that her husbof the fact that her husband had been discharged from the service.

And, things being what they are, the ever-efficient Army conitued to send Rosie her monthly allotment check for two years thereafter.

When the Army finally discovered its error, it promptly demanded that Rosie immediately pay back all the money it had sent her during the beneficient two year period.

"You must be joking," she responded. "It certainly isn't my fault if you don't know who's in the Army. I received the money in good faith and spent it in good faith. There's nothing left. If you want your money back, go find my good-for-nothing husband and get it from him."

"We didn't send it to him," was the Army's answer. "We sent it to you. And since you weren't entitled to it, you're the one who has to give it back."

Stalemated, the dispute ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make perplexed Rosie give back the money?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that illegal payments by public officers of public money can recovered from the person to whom such money is paid. And, noted the judge, an overpayment of an Army allotment to a wife of a soldier or ex-soldier is an illegal payment.

Help sought to bring holidays to state hospital

FARMINGTON — Organizations and individuals interested in doing something for the less fortunate at Christmas time are invited to participate in Operation Christmas at Farmington State Hospital. The project is designed to bring some cheer into the lives of hundreds of patients who will be spending the holidays on hospital wards.

The hospital staff furnishes Christmas trees and decorations and arranges for some special holiday activities. The personnel, however, are primarily involved in patient care; thus outside help is needed for gifts and or money to purchase gifts, sponsorship of ward parties, caroling and gift wrapping.

Donations to Operation Christmas 1974 may be sent or brought to Mrs. Wilma Rose, volunteer services supervisor, on the second floor of the Cayce Building, Farmington State Hospital, Farmington, Mo. 63640.

Offers of help and requests for more detailed information may be directed to Mrs. Rose at telephone number 756-4586, extension 308.

Thoughts
From The Living Bible

But if someone who is supposed to be a Christian has money enough to live well, and sees a brother in need, and won't help him — how can God's love be within him? Little children, let us stop just saying we love people; let us really love them, and show it by our actions. Then we will know for sure, by our actions, that we are on God's side, and our consciences will be clear, even when we stand before the Lord.

What causes clots in lung?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A relative of mine was put in the hospital complaining of a heaviness on the left side of the chest, and she had numbness in her fingers and arm. After tests were made of the heart, stomach and chest, the results showed she had blood clots in her lungs. Can you explain how this came about? We have heard about getting blood clots after an operation but never without a reason.

DEAR READER — Spontaneous occurrence of blood clots is rather uncommon but it occurs. A person may develop a clot or inflammation of the veins in the legs or even in the pelvic region, and the clot may jar loose and pass through the heart to the lungs.

The danger of a loose clot going to the lungs is the reason doctors are usually very careful with a patient who has a clot in the leg veins or an inflammation of the veins, as in the case of ex-President Nixon.

This problem can develop in active persons as well as inactive persons. It is more apt to occur in the legs if the venous drainage of the legs is slowed. This can occur with constricting wearing apparel. It may occur with sitting too long with pressure on the back of the thighs, as can occur in long airplane rides. That is one reason I recommend getting up and stirring around a little if you are going to be traveling for a long time. It occurs in pregnancy, in part because of the pressure on the veins from the pregnant uterus. And, clots in the legs may occur for no good reason at all.

A loose clot tends to go to the lungs because the clot forms in the veins. The veins all drain to the right side of the heart, and the blood is all pumped from the right heart to the lungs. The clot can't get through the lungs to go on to the left side of the heart and out into the arteries. Clots that cause strokes commonly originate in the left side of the heart and not in the veins.

The clot in the lung is called a pulmonary embolism. It resembles a heart attack, just as you have described it. The doctors need tests, including a heart tracing, blood tests, and sometimes special X-ray tests to determine what the problem really is. Sudden onset of chest pain and breathlessness (often extreme) are two common features of a pulmonary embolism.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you advise all adults not to drink milk? Is it true that only children need milk? You may guess I like milk and want to continue drinking it. My weight, blood pressure and cholesterol are no problem. Please advise us, as we are a milk-drinking Senior Citizen group.

DEAR READER — I prefer that everyone get about a quart of milk a day or its equivalent as cottage cheese or buttermilk, or a milk substitute.

Today in U. S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, Nov. 7, the 311th day of 1974. There are 54 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the short-lived Kerensky government in Russia and Nikolai Lenin became the new head of government.

On this date —

In 1659, the Pyrenees were fixed as the boundary btween Franc and Spain, ending a 24-year war.

In 1811, the Shawnee Indians were defeated in the battle of Tippecanoe in Indiana.

In 1885, the Canadian Pacific railroad was completed.

In 1918, a false report that Germany had accepted World War I peace terms set off great excitement.

In 1942, the Allied iasion o Nrh oafrica began in World War II.

In 1944, Franklin Roosevelt was elected to a fourth term as president.

Ten years ago: A nearly-completed building collaped in Rio de Janeiro, killing 41 persons.

Five years ago: Sixty-five miners were killed in an explosion in a gold mine in South Africa.

r One year ago: In an address to the nation, President Nixon said he had no intention of resigning.

Today's birthdays: Soprano Joan Sutherland is 48 years old. Evangelist Billy Graham is 56.

Thought for today: It's great to be great but it's greater to be human — Will Rogers.

Punch, the beverage, got its name from the Hindu "panch," which means "five." The Hindus make their panch drink with five ingredients — sugar, arrack, spice, lemon juice and water.

Project Independence runs out of energy

By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Project Independence, the federal energy program, is stalled.

When announced by former President Nixon, the goal was to increase U.S. energy production enough by 1980 to insulate the nation from the power of foreign oil cartels. The target date first slipped to 1985; now advisers talk of 1990, 2000 and beyond.

Unless there's more progress soon than is now in sight, we may be open to price jacking or boycott by Arab nations and their petro-associates until the 21st century.

Sitting in on sessions of an energy crash program advisory board provides a dismal picture of government failure.

The advisers are competent — top-flight executives and researchers from industry, universities and the financial world. They pull no punches, sound more gloomy than the economists. They believe the independence goal is possible — eventually. But because Congress and the White House put energy on a back burner when long gas lines ended at the filling stations, the coming mid-term crunch is just as certain as it seemed last winter.

The board I sat in on ticked off these problems:

Finance: Some $600 billions, or $40 billion a year will be needed over the next decade and a half to reach the energy goals by 1990. Private corporations alone would have to raise $16 billion a year in equity capital in 1973 dollars. Even in 1972, U.S. corporations secured only $8 billion through new stock issues. By 1971 the figure dropped to $2.3 billion. This year $600 million is expected. That's for all corporations, not just energy firms. How then, the experts asked, can we raise $16 billion a year in equity capital for energy alone, even assuming a dramatic recovery in the stock markets?

Petroleum: The major prospects for oil discoveries are in the offshore oceans. These are little surveyed or geologically mapped. Not much is being done to remedy this lack.

Shale: Once a big hope, the shale-to-gasoline program is now beset with political and environmental problems. Some 80 per cent of the most likely shale is on government land, where holdings by law are so restricted that profitable development is unlikely without congressional action. The scientists have been somewhat turned off by the high energy cost of turning buried shale into usable gasoline.

Nuclear power: The experts are not at all certain there are sufficient high-grade uranium ore deposits to fuel a uranium industry of the size foreseen in Project Independence. Foreign ores are no answer. Worldwide, nuclear energy is expanding more rapidly than in the United States, and the demand for high-grade ore mounts monthly. Licensing red tape continues to severely delay construction.

Coal: Production is expected to decline slightly between now and 1977, unless something more is done than seems likely now. Output could be doubled by 1990 if bottlenecks are eliminated in transportation, and the supply of mining engineers and supervisory personnel is increased. Delays occasioned by rougher than necessary environmental restrictions would also have to be cut.

Electric power: This industry is in the doldrums. Money is so costly many companies are canceling expansion plans. Many state agencies are snail-like in approving rate raises to meet rising costs.

One adviser's joking solution to the energy bogdown: "I hope we freeze next winter. It will be the only way we'll get anything done. Crises shake us into action."

Food services total more than $81 million in 1974

JEFFERSON CITY — School food services in Missouri's private and public schools represented more than an $81-million operation during fiscal year 1973-74.

This is one example of the massiveness of the five federal programs administered by the School Food Services Section of the State Department of Elementary and Secondary Education.

The programs are: the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program, Nonfood Assistance Program, Government Donated Food Program and Special Milk Program.

During the last school year, more than 1,117,000 Missouri school children had access to some type of food service in their schools.

A total of 126,190,558 half pints of milk were consumed in the state's schools during the 1973-74 school year. Of these, 99,123,416 were served as part of nutritious school lunches and breakfasts.

"Average daily pareticipation in the National School Lunch Program in Missouri reached 577,845 in the lastr school year," said Earl Langkop, director of the School Food Services Section.

"This represented 52 per cent of the total elementary and secondary school children in the state's public and private schools and 58 per cent of the children in attendance."

A total of 99.9 per cent of Missuri's public school children had access to lunches under the National School Lunch Program during the 1973-74 school year.

During the 1973-74 school year, the price children paid for school lunches equaled 38 per cent of the cost of the school lunch program. The remaining 62 per cent of the program was financed as follows: local funds (20 per cent), state funds (2 per cent) and federal aid (40 per cent).

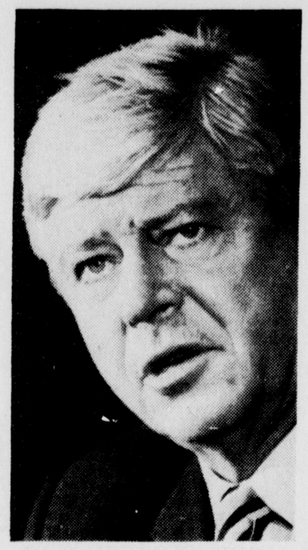
Approximately $24 million was paid in salaries to 6,850 full-time employes and 3,316 part-time employees hired by Missuri's public and private schools to prepare and serve lunches to the state's school children, said Langkop. Another $7,711,547 was spent at the local level for such items as utilities, food service equipment, cold storage and transportation of food items.

Food costs alone amounted to more than $49 million in the provision of nutritiously balanced meals in Missouri's schools during the 1973-74 school year.

A total of 351 train carloads of donated commodities, having an estimated wholesale value of $8,391,762, was accepted and distributed to eligible schools during the past school year.

Average daily participation in the School Breakfast Program reached a peak of 18,914 during May. A total of 127 Missouri schools participated in the program during the last school year.

HORSING AROUND is not the idea of this rider and mount at a riding academy at Kisfai, Hungary. They are showing what horses from the country's famous Bugao stud farm can do. Foreigners are permitted to take the school course.



DENYING the newly created Energy Policy Board he is to head will be "just another bureaucracy," secretary of the Interior Rogers C.B. Morton said the board will coordinate state and federal efforts to conserve energy and reduce consumption.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

World News in Brief

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon is suffering from yet another medical complication: a slight case of pneumonia in his partially collapsed right lung. Known as pneumonitis, the condition was apparently not considered serious. Dr. John C. Lungren said his patient is exhibiting over-all "slow but gradual improvement" since his brush with death last week following phlebitis surgery.

NEW YORK (AP) — For 15 years Maureen Shoreys was a Roman Catholic nun. Now she is in training to be a railroad engineer. "My new job, although vastly different, resembles the convent life to some degree," says Miss Shoreys. "Both require a great amount of discipline." She is among a few women working with 1,200 trainmen on the Long Island Rail Road.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief coal inustry negotiator in conntract talks with the United Mine Workers union says an agreement may be reached by this weekend to keep short an expected nationwide miners strike. Guy Farmer, chief negotiator for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, said he thought the two sides should be able to reach an accord "in two or three days," provided no new snags develop.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — There isn't a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn, but singer Frank Sinatra has put his 2½-acre estate on the market.

For $1.75 million, a homeowner can have the mansion, five guest houses, a tennis court, two swimming pools, a whirlpool bath, sauna and heliport. Terms are available, according to the realtor.

It seems the entertainer wants to move to Idyllwild in the San Jacinto Mountains west of here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two moderate Republican senators say the GOP must broaden its base and offer specific economic programs if it hopes to rebound from off-year election defeats that left its national strength at a 10-year low. The statements from Sens. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. of Connecticut and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois came as President Ford and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield pledged cooperation despite a general expectation of conflict over economic programs.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller and his brothers gave $11.7 million to charity and pledged millions more in 1973.

The money actually dispensed was made known Wednesday in a report by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, one of dozens of trusts that serve as repositories for the Rockefeller fortune.

The report did not say to whom the largess was directed, but the largest pledge disclosed was $10,163,772 to Rockefeller University. The second largest pledge went to Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, of which Laurance Rockefeller is chairman and where Nelson's wife recently underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous breast.

News of many cash gifts to associates of the former New York governor came to light during his vice presidential confirmation hearings.

DENVER (AP) — Dita Beard, the lobbyist whose memo allegedly linked International Telephone & Telegraph's antitrust settlement to a Republican party donation, has been back in the hospital.

She was hospitalized here in 1972, when news reports said she was visited by Watergate burglar and White House plumber E. Howard Hunt disguised in a red wig.

Mrs. Beard ended her current stay at Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital on Wednesday, but her doctor declined to say what she was treated for.

ROME, Italy (AP) — Some delegates expect the World Food Conference to accomplish nothing, others expect concrete resolutions but caution that followup action will be necessary. French economist Rene Dumont is urging the 1,200 persons attending the conference from more than 100 nations to join him in a symbolic fast on Nov. 13 and dedicate the money they save to feed some of the hungry in Asia and Africa. Meanwhile, Canada pledged a million tons of grain annually for the next three years, or a tenth of the proposed minimum target of 10 million tons of food aid.

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, who leaves Saturday for an official visit to the United States, says Austria is determined to continue acting as a transfer point for Jewish emigres from the Soviet Union, despite the closing last year of the Schoenau transit camp. The flow of immigrants has never halted, the 62-year-old Socialist leader said in an interview. Instead other camps were arranged for them. But Kreisky said if the rate of immigration increases to 60,000 a year, it will be too many for Austria to handle alone and "other countries must take over a share of the burden."

MOSCOW (AP) — Opening the annual Red Square celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution, Defense Minister Andrei Grechko said today that peaceful coexistence is gaining strength but the "forces of reaction and aggression" require an increase in Soviet defensive might. The parade included tanks, artillery and intercontinental ballistic missiles, but no new weapons were identified.

PORT HARDY, B.C. (AP) — Can an isolated island community which has long complained of neglect from British Columbia and Canadian officials find happiness as part of Alaska and the United States? Even the leader of the secessionist movement in the Mount Waddington Regional District admits he doesn't know, but he says he is anxious to try. Last month the District Board voted to propose the move to the governor of Alaska, naming Port Hardy Mayor Brian Klaver as ambassador to the 49th state. Klaver said Wednesday there had been no reply to the letter, mailed about two weeks ago.

Sewer installation progress discussed

HOWARDVILLE - The Board of Aldermen discussed progress in the installation of a sanitary sewer system Wednesday night.

Alderman LeRoy Bashley inquired about what C. B. Contracting Co. plans to do to repair damage to the streets while installing sewer lines.

Mayor Willie Hamilton stated that Larry Davis, supervisor of the sewer project, had requested 10 days to make repairs on the roads.

He stated that plans called for single-lane gravel service until further improvements can be made.

Hamilton said any damages to residential property during installation of sewer line hookups must be repaired by the contractor.

Any residents whose property was damaged should report that the city hall.

Hamilton stated that any contractor would be permitted to make the home hookups but asked that they contact the town board first.

Alderman James Young stated that the Southeast Missouri Transportation system is now active in Howardville.

SMTS provides low cost transportation to senior citizens and handicapped persons.

Young stated that a $6 yearly membership fee is required and a charge of five cents a mile is made while riding the bus.

Tom Dee spoke to the board about his role as a traveling city administrator. He will be working with six other communities besides Howardville, including Hayti Heights, North Lilbourn, Haywood City, Wilson City, Hometown and Penermon.

He stated that his job will be to assist each mayor and town board adopt the city management techniques.

Plans call for Dee to review the city books, reports, personnel procedures, ordinances and recommend changes when necessary.

He also will attempt to generate local, state and federal resources. Dee also stated he will conduct training courses for city officials who wish to improve their skills.

Plans call for Dee to spend three days a month in each town.

Medicare handbook revised

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A new edition of "Your Medicare Handbook" is being mailed to 23.5 million people across the nation, according to Gary Eason, Social Security district manager.

"The new 1974 handbook is smaller and easier to handle than previous editions," Eason said. "A copy should be in the hands of everyone who has Medicare health care insurance protection by the end of November." The completely new edition is a result of major amendments made in the Medicare program in the past two years.

"The new handbook explains in detail how Medicare hospital and medical insurance work," Eason said. "It tells what kinds of care Medicare covers and how much Medicare pays for each kind of care. It also tells what Medicare does not cover." An index in the new handbook will help people quickly locate information about a particular Medicare subject, Eason noted.

"When people get their new Medicare handbook, they should throw away any old editions they have," he said. "They should keep the new 1974 edition where they can find it when they need information about Medicare."

Medicare helps pay the health care bills of people 65 and over, disabled people who have been entitled to Social Security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months and many people with chronic kidney disease.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The Cape Girardeau office is located at 339 Broadway. The phone number is 334-5281.

Based on Miller's report, Sirica said, "it may be that someone will have to go to San Clemente and take his deposition on videotape."

Sirica emphasized, however, that he had made no final decision on how to get Nixon's testimony.

Nixon has been subpoenaed by both the prosecution and by defendant John D. Ehrlichman.

The prosecution has indicated that it hopes to be able to make its case without Nixon's testimony.

Tape player taken from car

A tape player was reported stolen Wednesday from a car belonging to Mike Collier, 803 Harvard Drive, according to police.

The theft took place between 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. while the car was parked in the high school parking lot. The tape player was valued at $30.

An undetermined amount of change was taken from a coin box in a soft drink machine at Barkett's Big Star Market in Midtowner Village Shopping Center between 8 p.m. Tuesday and 7:55 a.m. Wednesday.

Police said the machine was apparently opened with a key.
